DOG WALKER ALERT

ACTIVE COYOTE DEN IN THIS AREA

Avoid Walking Your Dog Here

Coyotes are members of the canine family and can be reactive to the presence of dogs, especially during coyote pupping season (typically spring to summer). During this time, coyotes exhibit den protective behaviors and will guard a localized area from other canines that are regarded as outsiders attempting to kill the pups. These protective behaviors will usually be focused on domestic dogs and are somewhat predictable within the localized den area.

This site has been identified as an ACTIVE DEN AREA.

Dog walkers should AVOID THIS AREA.

Always keep dogs on leash.
