001	Arts and Sciences	1. Focus on diversity of thought and experience, not just box-checking. Professors and students from certain demographic groups often bring a diverse viewpoint to discussions, but that is not necessarily the case. A Christian who grew up in Israel will almost certainly have a much more interesting and 'diverse' viewpoint on the Middle East conflict than a Jewish person who was raised in San Francisco; a caucasian from rural West Virginia is likely to understand poverty and oppression much better than an African-American from Beverly Hills. This reality was generally not acknowledged when I was a student; as a result, the student body became more diverse than it had b	4. Emphasize the special programs like the Honors Program in Humanities, the Erasmus Project, and the St. Ignatius Institute. I've met very, very few alumni who participated in such programs who don't count it as the best learning experience of their undergraduate years. I certainly do. 5. Require one semester's (or summer's) participation with a 501(c)(3) charitable organization as a condition of graduation (after hours, an externship in lieu of another class, or in lieu of for-profit summer employment at the student's option). The practical skills learned from such an endeavor interpersonal communications, time management, business contacts, fundraising coordination, constituency outreach, resource management, grant writing, etc have myriad applications in business and life regardless of career field, there is a sufficient range of such organizations in the Bay Area to satisfy students of any interest range, and it would directly serve the University's stated goal of service to the community and turning out leaders as gra
002	Arts and Sciences	I believe that the College of Arts and Sciences needed a little update, in particular Harney Science Center. Compared to other schools, USF lacked an up to date or current chemistry, physics, and biology labs. In terms of emphasis (i.e. pre-med, pre-law) I believe that additional information on what types of professional settings there are would really help incoming and current students. For example, I am currently a Chiropractic student but during my earlier years at USF new nothing more than the fact that in order to be a doctor I must be pre-med. The pre-requisites are slightly different for Chiropractic students and for others in my situation or similar situatio	A major aspect to the enlightening education at USF is definitely clubs and organizations. During my tenure at USF I was part of a fraternity. One thing I noticed as a greek organization member was that USF, in general, did not seem too 'greek' friendly. During the founding of USF's Greek Council, which I was a part of, the emphasis always seemed to be hazing, rather, than what benefits greeks had to offer. In essence, USF did not seem to be very supportive of greek life. Apparent, evidence for this was during the founding years of Greek Council and the lack of budget student council had given the organization.
003	Arts and Sciences		After graduating from USF, I attended a top tier medical school with some of the brightest graduates from around the country. My education at USF prepared me better than most. I would recommend USF without reservation.

004	Arts and Sciences	more organized activities. movie nights, lectures, small concerts.	also, more info of what alumni's are doing as far as career and what industry's they are working in. what about raffling off ticktes or winning tickects to attend an alumni event in san franciscothat would get more participants and reconnect people.
005	Arts and Sciences	Take advantage of the many assets that San Francisco has: museums, parks, large and small businesses, diversity,etc., and integrate that into course work. More musical opportunities on campus. More places to gather outside.	As a student athlete, my experience of college was quite different than the average student. I felt like a large part of campus life, but when I complete my five years, graduated suma cum laude, with honors, I never felt connected with the University again. I have never lived in California since graduation, but I would like to feel more a part of life at USF besides just getting letters for monetary support. The recent invitation to watch a basketball game with other alumns from USF in Seattle is an example of what could be done.
006	Arts and Sciences	Require more business classes in general ed.
007	Arts and Sciences	Incorporate the 'Pacific' into its Pacific Rim studies program(s). While I was there, the emphasis seemed solely on the Asia part of the Asia-Pacific Rim. There's an entire area in the Pacific - specifically, Micronesia - that continues to receive too little attention in American academia.	Build a stronger alumni network in areas outside of San Francisco. Consider extending Alumni-sponsored activities/activities for alumni into the U.S. territory of Guam.
008	Arts and Sciences		Campus/student life/extracurriculars need to be encouraged. It is hard to have that type of environment in the city but I feel like I missed out on this when I talk to friends that went to schools that placed emphasis on this. Activities like social clubs that hold events off campus (ex: greek life and Fog n' Grog!!!)
009	Arts and Sciences	I would love to see more opportunities to study abroad with USF professors.	Choosing to go to school at USF was one of the greatest decisions that I have ever made in life.
010	Arts and Sciences		Every day I feel a little luckier for having graduated from USF. Every time I receive a completely incoherrent email, I think of how lucky I am that USF taught me how to write. I'd written papers in high school, but USF gave me the basic skills to communicate via written word in an efficient, effective manner. I wrote hundreds upon hundreds of pages during my four years at USF. Those hundreds pages were read and reviewed by intelligent, dedicated professors who responded and helped me improve. Many of my peers weren't afforded that luxury, and it shows. Being able to write is critical in business based in email; the skills I learned at USF have set me apart from my peers and been a key factor in my success at work. Small class sizes, strong faculty, beautiful campus and a world class city - USF is the perfect college.

011	Arts and Sciences	Better laboratory facilities in Harney would greatly improve the more specific classwork involved in upper division science courses. Upper division labs were small, cluttered, and full of expired chemicals which may or may not affect the outcome of an experiment.	For further surveys, please include a 'neutral' option foragree/disagree questions
012	Arts and Sciences	Make all possible efforts to install and maintain the cohort program where it is feasible. It is the earmark of the incentive that comes from an esprit de corps. Information architecture as a program in and of itself should be seriously considered. A brief history of Jesuit education would almost be well designated as an undergraduate requirement. Why? Because it is a defining spirit in USF's approach. The farther along I go, the more of a need I see for the very basics of economics to be taught at all levels of academia. The Applied Economics program is very important niche and I hope that the interest in this program never wanes.	From time to time, the thought crosses my mind that my secondary education rests on the shoulders of a former French soldier who had a dream that included me. The Jesuit philosophy is a good one, if not the best. I hope USF will stand strong in this aspect.
013	Arts and Sciences	More Social Organization	Great School
014	Arts and Sciences	USF could have a diverse student population. The undergraduate/graduate program are highly expensive which omits the minorities of this community that desire to further their education. As a transfer student I did not receive an orientattion/tour of the campus and I had to figure out things on my own.	I am interested in continuing my education and earning a Masters of Social work. I would like to continue my education and enroll in the graduate program of USF, yet I cannot afford the tuition. I was wondering if there are any scholarships and finacial aide that I may qualify for the graduate program at USF.
015	Arts and Sciences	The post-college help finding a job was lacking. Career counseling was not very effective. It would have been nice to have more opportunities for political, and community volunteer activities. I also would have liked to have taken more classes about technology and the web. The classes offered at that time were very basic.	I am very happy and proud of the education I received from USF. I love the cultural, political and spiritual diversity of the students and faculty and I will always treasure the many memories and friends I made while earning my degree at USF.

016	Arts and Sciences	I would provide better access to activities for students who enter the University at a non-traditional age. I worked full time while attending USF, and I was able to graduate with a 3.96 GPA. I was 24 when I entered USF as a freshman. I found, however, that many of the extracurricular activities were either too juvenile, or were conducted during hours when I was required to be at work. My particular circumstances prevented me from participating in University activities, and blocked me from gaining access to your honor society, which I obviously deserved. The underinclusiveness that I experienced was rather disheartening. The feelings of rejection that I felt when I	I currenly live in Las Vegas. I'm surprised that there is no alumni presence here despite Las Vegas's close proximity to California. I'd like to see a stronger alumni presence here, and elsewhere across the country. It will help with networking and can provide a source for prospective students to assist them with making the decision to attend USF. Moreover, I think that a wider network of USF alumni will help strengthen USF's image as a national, rather than local, university.
017	Arts and Sciences	Offer more opportunities and information for undergrads in the arts. As a history major it was very difficult to find a job. I felt like I needed more direction and guidance. Unfortunately I moved back home and couldn't take advantage of USF Career services. Perhaps some info on jobs/services in areas outside of San Francisco would have been helpful. Or maybe a link to career services through another school in the area.	I definitely think that USF has improved academically since I've graduated. I'm glad to see that the school is becoming more popular and turning into a more top notch university to attend.
018	Arts and Sciences	make the school accessible to a larger percentage of people from lower economic income levels - amke it more affordable.	I enjoyed every minute and I look back fondly on my days at USF.
019	Arts and Sciences	I think that USF makes a serious effort and knows better than I do.	I feel a strong connection to USF and approve of the way it has developed in the years since I graduated.
020	Arts and Sciences	There is a hierarchy in relation to social class. Though USF is generous in awarding scholarships and funding for a higher education, there is definitely a disparity and clash of class prevalent. It's there, please don't ignore this FACT.	I feel there needs to be people of color at the staff level. Not very many professors are people of color can relate to. And having one black, five asian, and three mexican students in a classroom does not equate DIVERSITY. Please recognize that. We see it, why don't you?
021	Arts and Sciences	Arts/Sciences needs to include critical theory in the curriculum, as well as require a course in scientific/socio-scientific methodology.	I felt very well prepared socially when I graduated, but woefully underprepared academically. This is problematic for those pursuing academic careers.
022	Arts and Sciences		I found it interesting that in both the sections about advanced degrees and occupations that theology and ordained/vocational ministry are not listed.

023	Arts and Sciences		I graduated mangna cum laude from USF in 2004 with a BA in English. I contimplated continuing my education, but opted against going to graduate school. I now live in a small town in Wyoming where I build green housing. I continue to read and educate myself (in the field of construction), however I haven't used any of my formal training as an english major in years. Despite this I think fondly and often of my experience at USF and feel that though I may not regularly draw on the hard skills that I gained at USF I often rely on the other lessons I learned. My time at USF and the interactions I had with my professors taught me to think creatively, stand up for what I think is right (regardless of wether I am in the minority or not), and to never stop learning. I appreciate the opportunity to have studied at USF and for the expected and unexpected things that I learned.
024	Arts and Sciences	I'm not sure.	I graduated the development director certificate program. This program did help me to build a career, but many of the questions herein really weren't applicable to my situation.
025	Arts and Sciences		I had a great undergraduate and graduate experience at USF
026	Arts and Sciences	USF should become more invovled in the professional community, in order to build a name for itself among local businesses as well as local government. In that way, students and alumni would benefit when they go out to find jobs or to network with other professionals.	I had a very positive experience overall at USF, and I would highly recommend my younger neices and nephews to go to college there.
027	Arts and Sciences	a lab for psychology students to conduct true experiments	I had a wonderful education at USF and especially inspired by my professors.
028	Arts and Sciences	I remember as an arts student having to take so many philosophy classes that, at times, it seemed I was a philosophy major. I am not sure if that has changed, but I definitely didn't see the benefit there. I would have much rather taken classes about the people and thoughts of people of current times and issues. It should definitely be an option to take a World Religions class versus a Jesuit only type of religion course. Again, this may have changed from when I was there, but a lot of people want to learn about other religions and about what they actually believe instead of more of the same.	I have done so much since graduating from USF!! I have worked as a television producer and produced live, national, anti-drug braodcasts out of Washington D.C. with Colin Powell and General Barry McCaffrey. I have produced a show with Steve Young. I have also volunteered at an aquarium helping sea turtles in Florida. I went to work for Southwest Airlines at BWI (to eventually work in their marketing department) and experienced 9-11 first hand at the closest international airport to Washington D.C I have experienced a lot and have always been thankful for my education at USF. I am now going back to school to get a nursing degree because I have realized that is really what I want to do for the rest of my life.If I could go back and do it again I would make some changes, but as a whole I am very satisfied with my overall education from USF and speak highly of the University whenever I can.

029	Arts and Sciences	Please continue to develop the Visual Arts program. The current program does not qualify a student to continue their education in any one area of emphasis. I was not qualified to enter an M.A. program in Art History because I did not have enough Art History credits. I think the program is too broad. I think it would be better to have distinct degrees for Art History/ Arts Management, Fine Arts, and Architecture.	I have taken some class at the local City College since graduating from USF. The overall quality of instruction I received at USF, was far better than what I have recently experienced. Now I appreciate that a class syllabus was required for every class I took at USF, and that the instructors stuck to it. I am grateful for the requirement to develop writing skill.
030	Arts and Sciences	I think USF is a great school and should try its best to move up the tiers. Maybe do more to get national recognition in the country	I love USF!
031	Arts and Sciences	I would say that looking from the outside in, one would not quickly realize that USF is a Catholic university. I sought out opportunities to join faith based activities and organizations on campus but it certainly felt that the majority of the student body was not Catholic. I think I would liked a more visible Christ-centered presence on the campus. I also notice from time to time that some very controversial speakers and events take place on campus, that I feel have no place on a Catholic campus, and that makes me wonder if USF is drifting further from our Catholic values.	I loved my education at USF. I attended Catholic schools all my life and I was in for a shock when I came to USF. Overall I think the school is liberal due to its location and very diverse student body. I learned to appreciate the differences I found in the people around me and as a result of having to stand up for my faith at times, I grew to be a stronger Catholic.
032	Arts and Sciences	I believe the College of Arts and Science has been neglected over the years and has lost valuable resources when some of the professor's contracts were not extended. The Biological Sciences have suffered significantly during my stay at USF. With the new construction/renovation of the Arts & Science building I hope that new talent can be attracted. During my time at USF the focus was, and probably still is, to attract as many people as possible to the Business school. While MBA's and business degree's might be the cash-cows of universities today - it's short sighted to delegate most of the resources in that area. As far as I remember, the Computer Sciences and physical sc	I loved my time at USF and consider myself very close to the school. Even though I come from Europe I must say I definetly have USF pride! :)I have no real pride in my recent graduate school experience but will always remember my time at USF fondly instead. Go DONS!!
033	Arts and Sciences	It has been a long time since I attended USF, but I recall it being very 'clicky'. I was not much of a 'joiner' then, but I don't remember many university functions that united the many countries that were represented by the student body. I went to a couple of ANSA parties, but only because my Norwegien friends invited me, not because the school promoted it. I also would have liked more computer class requirements. I am still not that computer savvy, yet I was living in San Francisco when the technology was being borne. I imagine this is a requirement now.	I loved my time at USF, primarily because of the city itself and the wonderful international mix of students. If it is not already available, USF should offer classes that focus on the city that include field trips to the various communities for incoming students.

034	Arts and Sciences	Perhaps a little more diversity in the age of students would be welcome. As an older student, returning for my second undergrad degree, I sometimes felt old among my classmates.	I maintain contact with many of my professors, and they continue to support my efforts in my career. My organization recently conducted a demonstration at the Family Science Days (AAAS national meeting), and one of my professors came by to say hello. It was a wonderful!
035	Arts and Sciences	USF needs to place more importance on the Jesuit mission and academics within the USF mens basketball team. I am continuously seeing USF recruit players with questionable backgrounds, attitude problems once at campus, no academic goals and a feeling of privelege. It is sad when the newspapers connect USF's name with a recruit who has been suspended, arrested or kicked out of other schools due to major issues. If we are giving someone a second chance then we need to do that. I feel that once they are here they have been given a diservice as they leave here with no degree and no understanding of the Jesuit mission and how to be men for others. It saddens me to know fo	I need to explain that some of my answers were rated as poor as I attended USF during the (previous President's) time when it was more about pomp and circumstance than the Jesuit mission. It was easy to go through classes and around campus and not feel that it was a religious institution. Service learning was not a part of the student culture unless they had prior experience and sought it out themselves. From what I have heard USF has implemented some great changes with service learning requirements for students, living learning communities, Nobel Peace prize speakers, etc. It has also been nice to see (the President) invited to the opening prayer for Nancy Pelosi in Washington and other important events here in SF as well as abroad. It has helped give me more of a sense of pride as a graduate of USF.
036	Arts and Sciences	Better grants and scholarships for people from middle income families, who make enough to not be included in the low income bracket but not enough to afford USF's expensive tuition.	I studied abroad in Budapest, and I loved it. I think giving more students information about study abroad and providing more locations would get more people interested, which benefits the world.
037	Arts and Sciences	USF needs to do a better job of deveoping a sense of community and school pride. Yes, their are a lot of commuter students, but the school doesn't seem to be doing much to ramp up this idea of school pride. Even in relatively easy arena, like sports, when I was there the only way you knew there was a game of any kind going on was on that sandwich board that sits out between the cafeteria and the bookstore. I often wanted to go to events but wouldn't find out that we had played Gonzaga until the next day. In the end, people will work harder for something they take pride in. If you take pride in your school, you will take pride in the work you are doing there. Is thi	I think that just about everything I get from USF is some form of donation request. We need money for this, we need money for that, etc. I am all about giving, but I am not a big fan of any group constantly soliciting money from me without offering much in return. My education? Sure, but I also paid $20k a year for that. Harvard has the endowment it does in part because of the way it has stayed connected with it's past students and established groups of graduates into networking groups. Harvard has a lot of time on USF, but USF could do similar things. It costs money to make money. That in mind, if I had some stronger tie to USF, if USF kept me involved, then I would be much more likely to make donations. But a letter each prominant holiday asking for donations doesn't cut it.

038	Arts and Sciences	More opportunities to conduct research with professors. 2. Help to foster more school spirit. 3. In the school of education, our school would benefit from attracting world class professors who challenge the traditional models of education.	I think USF did a good job bring lots of different cultures together, however, I think the students of color learned more about how to work well with whites, than the converse. I think the concept of prevailing white priviledge should be explored more deeply. I also think that there should be a critical evaluation of the Jesuits role in the developing world, particularly how to ensure that people of color around the world are humanized and not seen as people who simply benefit from the Jesuit 'goodwill'.
039	Arts and Sciences	My biggest challenge at USF was handling the expense. There were several semesters I considered transfering because I didn't believe I could keep paying for the expenses associated with USF. The school was very generous offering me several scholarships, grants and loans but I had a very difficult time managing the everyday expense of being a student and having few opportunities to make a decent wage. I worked 30-40 hours/week as a student and I left school with a maxed out credit card. I would have been interested in seeing more educational and work opportunities for students like me. I'm sure there are enough low-income students to warrant help like this. Since I've gra	I treasure my time at USF and will always look on it fondly. It wasn't easy but it made me a better person and I learned from so many different people. I made wonderful friends and I still keep in touch with some of the faculty. The Latin American Studies and Music Programs were very influential in my development and I felt that the professors truely cared about me and my education. In the workplace now, I encounter many individuals with degrees from 'better' universities and I am amazed by what they never learned in school. I have also worked with other USF grads. One in particular graduated with honors and she was one of the best coworkers I have ever had. I can't say the same for people that have graduated from Cal with honors.
040	Arts and Sciences	After transferring to USF, I was suprised at the amount of talking in classes about situations that were occuring in daily life without stepping out of the classroom to learn from those that were in these situations. Being a politics major I beleive that it will be important to take students who have never lived/been in school with or otherwise talked to folks who are of different socio-economic status and race out into the communities in San Francisco, so that students are not simply reading a book but can also translate the reading and apply it to real life situations. Also an increase in diversity (not of foreign students) but of minorities born in this country will	I truly appreciated the capacity of professors and others in the Politics Department as well as others.
041	Arts and Sciences	USF could actually be Catholic and bring back orthodox teaching to its campus, instead of heresy. In promoting diversity, it should truly do so by openly supporting conservative, pro-life students and faculty at least as much as it supports, if not promotes, liberal, pro-abortion, LGBT students/faculty (which it should not to begin with as a Catholic institution). It should also make Logic a required class, b/c it's amazing how few of its students understand it and are given to fallacy.	I want to make it clear that throughout this survey, whenever I gave positive ratings, it was b/c I was specifically thinking about the outstanding education I received from the St. Ignatius Institute BEFORE its demise. I was persecuted by the rest of the USF community for being a conservative, pro-life, Republican Catholic! It is a hostile environment for non-liberals. Plus, my academic experience in the sciences was average. Therefore, I have and will not recommend this university to anyone, unless it turns itself around and conforms with the Magisterium of the Church.

042	Arts and Sciences	I am very happy with my educational experience at USF. However, at the time, USF did not provide many ethnic/cultural courses and that is what I lacked in my education compared to people I know that attended SFSU.	I was a commuter student and ofetn felt left out of student clubs and activities, so hopefully more is being done to recruit commuter students into joining organizations and such.
043	Arts and Sciences	Provide more social outlets to build a stronger community. Provide workshops about graduate school at the junior and senior level to prepare students for gradution and future careers. Provide more hands on training through internships so students can be successful after graduation. Provide more alumini events to create a stronger network and sense of pride.	I was a transfer student at USF and felt very out of place. When I graduated I was not prepared for the working world and didn't knwo what to do. I had a summer job at USF and then worked at the GAP. I went back to school to get my Master's at Boston College to escape the real world because I didn't kwow what to do with my degree. I finished my Master's in Counseling in 2006. Althought I do feel I am better prepared for the real world I still feel I am not being paid my worth. I feel if I would have had a stronger foundtation or more direction in undergrad I would be in a different place in my life right now. I have other friends from USF that were in the same program as me that feel the same. I now wish the alumni had a stronger network so I could at least feel connected in that way or at least still supported in my development. Boston College actually has a stronger Alumni Association in the Bay Area than USF does. I find that sad and if I could change one thing it would that the Alumni Association come together with a sense of pride.
044	Arts and Sciences		I was enrolled in the Erasmus Program, which made an astonishing impact on my life. I highly leave most of my development and learning to this program. I truly enjoyed going to school at USF and miss it.
045	Arts and Sciences	More counseling on job opportunities or post graduate studies in my field. It was difficult to decide what to do, and many of the opportunites were not very well paid for the amount of school debt I needed to pay off. Perhaps a plan or some sort of discussion as to what the future has to offer for some one with such a degree would have been helpful.	I was extremely satisfied with my education at USF. I felt the teachers were competent and enthusiastic about their subjects.
046	Arts and Sciences	None that I can think of.	I was very pleased with my education through USF. It was a wonderful experience for me. Initially I had a difficult time finding employment but after completing my Master's Degree, I found a job almost immediately.

047	Arts and Sciences	Better interview and job training. When I graduated from Arts and Sciences, I had no idea how to apply for a job, do an interview well or what job options were open to me. I remember asking at a politics orientation meeting what kind of jobs I could get with that degree and was told 'our job is not to help you get a job.' The job center was not very helpful in how to approach the job market. I noticed on the other hand that friends of my in the School of Business with the help of professors had jobs lined up in the business sector by the time they graduated. So, my critique might be centered on the approaches different departments take on preparing graduates for the	I went to the University during a great state of flux surrounding the St. Ignatius Institute and therefore did not feel I received the full college experience because I got caught in the battle between the Ultraconservative Catholics in the group and the people that eventually won out and took over the institute.
048	Arts and Sciences	Provide education and better networking opportunities on transition from college to work-force	I will forever value my liberal arts education from USF. Though I feel I was not guided much in ways of employment opportunities once outside of college, I do firmly believe that what I value in life and how I view the world today can be attributed to the education I received in San Francisco.
049	Arts and Sciences	Provide more housing for studentsbeing off campus I never truly felt part of the USF community	I would be more involved as an Alumni, but I no longer live in California, and I don't know anybody else who stays involved. Also, in terms of giving, I feel that USF sometimes places more importance on the aesthetics of the campus as opposed to meaningful programs, which is why I don't donate any money.
050	Arts and Sciences	Lowering fees. Full stop. It is far too expensive.	I would recommend tailoring the survey or at least offering an option of a separate survey for CPS alumni or perhaps more simply, older students. I found myself answering 'very poorly' for a very large quantity of questions that would have been more honestly answered by a 'not applicable.' By the time many of us returned to school our spirituality, our political involvement and our careers are already established. Because our education was so focused at the time on our major (indeed, as transfer students, all our required general education courses have already been taken at other institutions) we weren't exposed to the school's philosophy in the same manner a 19 year old would coming out of high school.
051	Arts and Sciences	By not codling students so much which is a natural reaction to the small class sizes. Just a little more sink or swim. Although USF's emphasis in writting and oral communication (Jesuit Based) is outstanding a basic logic class (like USD's basic freshman logic) would be oustanding.	I would watch for the 'over political correctness' insofar as that the purpose is no longer to make people aware and more sensitive but rather to make classifications based upon race and overuse the term 'racist'.

052	Arts and Sciences	Better representation of 'classical' sources - even if this entails a critique of them. I found that in every department there was a tendency toward very recent research (an excellent capacity of the faculties I attended) but there was very little to explain how this was a critique of recently past, or even ancient, sources and modes of thought. In brief, this would entail a 'contextualizing' of the current content of academic research in the field at question. I had a notable professor who did this, but it was in private conversation during office hours, and not in the classroom. He explained his development during his doctoral years as he encountered the developing	In order to instill each of the general moral tenses of the questions in this survey, it would be in the university's interest to strengthen the Theology/Religious Studies department, as this is where I found these ideas best presented.
053	Arts and Sciences	More creativity in the classromm teaching experience. Not so much of a lecture style or small group experience. Allowing more oral tradition in the classrom.	It is because of my experience as a Social Justice Intern in Campus Ministry that I am now pursuing my vocational goal of working in full-time ministry. Not a day goes by when my Jesuit education does not influence my day in some shape or form.
054	Arts and Sciences	Keep building more classrooms and expanding the student population.	It would be great if someday USF creates a Football team again.
055	Arts and Sciences	There should be more social casual gatherings and simple clubs. Leaders should be affirmatively sought out to create these groups.	It would be great to have a chat room or blog set up for alumni who no longer live in the US, or for all alumni from a certain year
056	Arts and Sciences	Continue to add study abroad/ service abroad programs.	I've always been concerned with the military presence on-campus at USF (ROTC). As USF claims as part of its mission a commitment to be socially responsible and to be sustained by a faith that does justice, I feel that the promotion in any way of a military that is a source of oppression for so many around the world does not fit with USF's core values. In conversation with some members of USF's top administration, I have been told that the idea of having an ROTC program on campus is a way of providing military personnel with the tools to act in a socially just manner while in the military. However, as a student at USF and since my graduation, I have not ever been witness to this process. Indeed, I believe that the very visible presence of military personnel on the USF campus sends a message to students contrary to what the mission and core values state, and indeed supports the military agenda.

057	Arts and Sciences	More 'real world' education (i.e. how to invest and why important to in a Roth IRA with your first job), how to create a resume, how to properly interview, how to avoid getting into debt in your early 20s. There should also be a class on sex education in the real world. Something like this would be more practical than some of the other offerings.	I've been really disappointed with the alumni association. Just in the past year or so, I've seen consistent communications on alumni events. I was really excited to be a part of the alumni association upon graduation but it completely fell flat. Also, right before I graduated, there were so few exciting events for Seniors (i.e parents night, Senior events for students in my major). My husband went to Santa Clara. After hearing about all their pre-graduation events, I was jealous!! As I tell people, I don't feel like I graduatedI feel like I left. Oh, P.S Where is the alumni directory I was pestered about for 4 months and never received? !@#*!?
058	Arts and Sciences	Overall, I think USF does a fantastic job. I liked the fact that the classes were small and I usually had access to my teachers and everyone operated in a team effort. If anything, these are a few suggestions that I have: 1. If they can afford it or raise money for it, USF should BUY more residential property in the city (San Francisco proper) so as to have more classrooms, office space and a bigger library (or even more dorm space) for students, especially commuter students. I know that the University is expanding right now and repairing older buildings. But its a shame when open spaces get destroyed or occupied (the old ballroom in Lone Mountain, the grassy field in	Just wanted to let you know that going to USF changed my life. I really am a better person for going there and I value the education i recieved. A job well done! Plus, (the President) is really cool!P.S. In terms of social justice and public speaking engagements, keep up the good work! There was never a lack of resources and events at USF (Like the annual School of Americas protest and public lectures from visiting human rights workers and dignitaries). BTW I still have goosebumps from when the Dali Lama came in 2003!
059	Arts and Sciences	n/a. I was very happy with all of the professors in the psychology department!	Make the tuition more affordable for everyone.
060	Arts and Sciences	Provide more facilities to the regional campuses. Add more courses, subjects, give us more equipment, tutoring, technology, allow longer hours for library and computer lab. Give us less Liberal instructors, give us more conservatives or at least, balance things more. I'm sick of the liberal propaganda being drummed with every course. There is no balance or fairness in politics in the regional campuses.	More spirituality.
061	Arts and Sciences		My experience at USF was a terrific one! I came from a small town in northern California, and USF exposed me to a number of different cultures and ideas. I had excellent professors- they were easily accessible and always willing to talk!

062	Arts and Sciences	I came into USF as a Christian, having been raised in the Methodist church. I wish USF would have offered me more options to become involved in faith-related activities that were geared towards Catholic students. I would have liked more non-denominational church services and gatherings of all types of students who were interested in issues of faith. I struggled to develop spiritually because I found these areas to be lacking.	My experience at USF was invaluable in that it taught me that all people have value and worth and need to be treated with respect. It also reinforced my beliefs in the importance of issues of diversity and cultural competence. Now that I am a teacher in suburban seattle, I rely on what I learned at USF when trying to provide my students with a more worldly perspective.
063	Arts and Sciences	There teacher evaluations that were filled out at the end of each semester did not provide a space where I could write a narrative evaluation of the teacher and/or the class. That could have provided valuable information about the instructor/class because some questions and evaluation criteria did not really apply.	My experiences at USF have really shaped the person I am today. I have made professional and social contacts that I believe I will stay with me for the rest of my life. I enjoyed the small class sizes, especially in upper division classes as well as the mandatory office hours the instuctors provided. The faculty and staff of the Biology Department and the School of Education were supportive and inspiring, not to mention knowledgeable. I feel very privileged to have graduated from USF with my BS as well as my MA.
064	Arts and Sciences	More emphasis on different religions and religious perspectives, and an openness on the part of Catholocism to other traditions, including Buddhism, Islam and what would be considered 'heretical' Christians. More intellectual activities that foster real and inspired thinking and less 'chastity-type' of talks. I found those very uninteresting and bland, without much intellectual content. There needs to be a community where real dialog takes placeand not, as was the case in my experience, the presentation of one highly reductive Catholic perspective.	My greatest sadness about USF is that it lacked an intellectual community where aspiring young people could really grow together. There was little opportunity for any such socializingthere was a lot of focus on community service, on sports, on business, nursing, but no interest at all in developing an intellectual culture.
065	Arts and Sciences	It would be great if the education was more affordable. Its been ten years and I am still paying off my student loans.	My only regret is that I didn't take more philosophy classes and I wish I had joined the Ignatius Institute. What really made my USF great was the fantastic Erasmus Project I experienced the greatest community and classes through that. I also enjoyed the crewing.
066	Arts and Sciences	Keep the school small, personal relationships with professors and the ideals of Jesuit education demand a sense of community. Expand the University Scholars program, maintain the Honors program in the Humanities and promote these excellent, dynamic programs to applicants.	Not much, the school is amazing! I have since worked with Ivy league graduates, well-educated professors from a variety of backgrounds, and person by person I feel that my USF education met or exceeded the level of those I've worked with. USF is the type of school I hope to teach at someday.

067	Arts and Sciences	I had a strange experience at USF as I did the JDP with CCAC. I attended from 1997-2001 and did all of my major work at ccac. We weren't treated the same and I'm sorry to say that I feel like you were just taking my money and pawning me off on some other school.	not sure but I receive daily emails from USf and would prefer to only receive ones that actually pertain to me as an alumna. I don't care if the parking at the gym is closed for the day. it makes me not want to read ANY of the emails from usf.
068	Arts and Sciences	Promote sexual orientation diversity. Improve career services. Promote networking in career services. Involve professors in educating students the value of networking (even in other fields/majors). Educate and offer tools to professors on how to provide employment information.	One of the main purpose in acquiring a degree is for a person to obtain a decent job. USF needs to improve their career services. If USF can provide a greater ability for students to obtain employment after graduation, USF will have an edge over other institutions and their reputation WILL precede them.
069	Arts and Sciences	Since I have been at USF, both issues are being addressed. First, the Biology classrooms where I did my undergraduate work were severely outdated. With the new building, I am sure that will be corrected. Also, the Honors programs are lacking. Specifically, the Leo T. McCarthy opporunities/working with the community. When I graduated, only the public service certificate was available. Again, I believe this is being addressed. Another thing I would call attention on are the limited class options - speaking in the biology department. 072	Arts and Sciences	Connect people with professional mentors outside the academic environment beyond internships and jobs. There is a lot to learn from an academic standpoint, but the professional world is so very different, and helping people understand and deal with those differences makes for a smoother transition. Likewise, being involved with the USF Baseball broadcasts and the athletic department gave me hands-on experience that is still applicable today.	Please, please! Political Correctness applies to all aspects of labeling. In the future, I would strongly suggest you replace the slanted word 'White,' when you are sensitively categorizing all other ethnic and racial groups, to 'European American' on your survey. If we are truly to foster a sense of equality in our uniquely diverse society, then the way we treat ourselves and others starts with how we categorize our various ethnic, racial, religious, and socioeconomic backgrounds.

If it takes a position focused on technology/entrepreneurship/Asia business (i.e. like Babson in Boston), then it can compete and establish its own niche. We all know that USF will not be a Berkeley or Stanford, but if it can be on the same caliber as an NYU or a Babson, the business school will be a strong anchor for USF>

081	Arts and Sciences	USF should strive to be more academically rigorous in its English programe. I felt that I was able to attain the highest grades possible with a minimum of effort and this caused me to be overconfident when I reached graduate school and found that I lacked the research skills and knowledge to face intense study which was not required of me at USF. However I do not wish to be entirely negative because the grade point average I attained because of the easy time I had was one of the reasons I got in to graduate school at Oxford University, and I am very grateful to be here. The St. Ignatius Institute as I knew at the time was the only program that could have challenged me enough to help me grow as a person. 084	Arts and Sciences	I love what USF has done in the recent years to build its Fine Arts programs. I believe that a stronger Dance/Theater program needs to be in place to mirror the amazing opportunities the city of San Francisco has for those in the Arts.	The Student Alumni Association needs to be reinstated.
085	Arts and Sciences	USF offers many resources for those students who are motivated to seek them out. I feel the education offered was quality and more than adequate. For incoming freshmen, I think it is extremely important to provide guidance during the first two years so that the students can develop their education and career goals together. Having more interaction with school counselors would help in this respect. One memorable experience was having a foreign service officer speak to my politics class about that field of work. It would be good to include more activities like that to give uncertain students more direction for when they graduate,	The whole experience at USF will always be an integral part of my life. 092	Arts and Sciences	I was extremely satisfied with my social and academic experiences at USF as an undergraduate student. As a result, I entered USF as a graduate student with high expectations. Unfortunately, it was not what I expected. USF needs to focus on strengthening their graduate programs. I feel that the curriculum was not strong enough in preparing me for my first post-graduate position. The coursework was not in depth and I felt overwhelmed. I did not feel any guidance from the faculty as to the various opportunities I could have after obtaining my degree. Finally, I did not feel a connection or a support system from the department as I did when I initially earned my BA from USF.	USF has a strong undergraduate program and truly follows their mission statement through its curriculum. The community was very supportive and faculty/staff are open to hear feedback from their students to strengthen their class and department. It prefers to describe itself as 'Jesuit' instead of Catholic, which is laughable, as the term Jesuit loses its substantial meaning without being placed in the context of an order in the Catholic Church. The manner in which this was done was appallingly uncharitable to the directors who were fired, the faculty who were ignored, and the students, who were clearly irrelevant to the decisions of the university and (the President) in particular. We really must improve our athletic teams! It's a must in order to grow our alumni and current student support, financially and otherwise.
099	Arts and Sciences	For humanities/language students, introduce students to Critical Theory texts and how to apply them to analyzing literary/sociological works. I received NO training with critical theory until I got to graduate school. The philosophy requirement should include reading secular as well as religious philosophical texts. The 'Great Books' program should not be confined solely to SII, but a part of the General Ed curriculum. Students in all disciplines should have the opportunity to do a senior thesis or honors research project, especially if they have any aspirations of going to graduate school.	When I entered graduate school, I felt woefully underprepared in world literature and critical theory and spent a lot of time catching up. The aspects I mentioned above are CRITICAL if a student is going to pursue post bachelors studies in Arts and Humanities.
100	Arts and Sciences	Consistent, quality advisors for the students.	When I think of USF, I think of very happy memories. The university played a big part in my transition into adulthood. 102	Arts and Sciences	Provide incoming students with a better understanding of the financial implications of attending USF. When I entered USF at 17, I thought it was great that I could go to the bursar's office and sign a promissory note and have money for that semester. What I didn't realize is that I was signing loan documents over four years for over 20 thousand dollars. If I had a better understanding of this, I don't know if I would have chosen USF. I was the first in my family to go to college - I don't think my parents or myself understood how much money it was actually going to cost.	Your question of 'Would you recommend USF to others' is poorly worded. It depends on the person and the situation. USF is not for everyone, but it was for me, and I value the time I spent there. I would not recommend it to someone who wanted to spend weekends at tailgates and frat parties, but I of course would recommend it for someone looking for a liberal arts education and looking to live in what I consider to be the best city in the USA.

Coming from an immigrant and socio-economically disadvantaged household with Spanish-speaking parents, I never learned about career opportunities in health and sciences while attending USF. Rather, I learned this through research on my own after completing my Bachelor's in Sciences. My education at USF in the sciences would of benefited more if there was actual promotion, education and encouragement of different technical fields in the sciences and health. There is a dominant feeling among the science department that leans towards the preparation of MD careers. Afte

Our school is in the middle of all of these elite schools, we should be up there as well. Improve the technology in science labs since the biotech industry is huge.

109	Arts and Sciences	As a biology major, I felt that there wasn't enough variety of upper division courses offered. There were some certain post-graduate and certification programs I wanted to apply for after graduating but many of the undergraduate prerequisites were not available at USF and I didn't have time to take it at another school.

110	Arts and Sciences	As a politics major, I found that although USF provided me with an excellent skill set for continuing my studies that put me above most of my peers, most graduate schools that I was interested in required at least 6 credits in social science methodology, and at the time that I was at USF only 3 were required. While I understand that additional courses are available, as an undergrad I was totally unaware that this could be a problem for me in the long run, and even if I had been aware of this I did not expect to go to grad school at that time. If this is indeed a common requirement at grad schools and not just a fluke of my experience, then in the interest of helping st
111	Arts and Sciences	As a progressive institution concerned with social justice I believe more can be done to bring the majority of the student body out of the 'USF Bubble' and into the world which we are leading members. I believe the mandatory, general education requirement that binds students to an interdisiplinary internship for social justice is a step in this direction. However, the point seems to be missed by the minimal 20 hour commitment. It is time for the parts (students) of the whole (USF) to put there 'money where their mouth is' if you will.

121	Arts and Sciences	Continue to provide top notch professors in small classroom settings. Rely less on the adjunct professors as primary instructors and more on tenured staff. I'm sure there isn't suposed to be a diffrence, but as a student, you can tell. Just like commuter students are less connected to campus, so are commuter professors.
122	Arts and Sciences	During my time at USF, there did not seem to be a great networking system with the science/technology industry that provided science majors with internship opportunities. I would like to see greater partnerships with companies in the scientific field to enhance 'on-the-job' experience for students.
123	Arts and Sciences	During my undergraduate tenure at USF, the University's mission, vision, and goals were different than what they are today. I had no idea what are mission was at that time, nor where there departments like the McCarthy Center or Cultural Diversity/Service Learning curriculum requirements that had a learning and application piece.
124	Arts and Sciences	Encourage more ethnic diversity in admission and especially in on campus activities.

126	Arts and Sciences	Focus more on the school's Catholic identity and less on pushing political correctness.
127	Arts and Sciences	Focus more with on the job training and internships to prepare students for real jobs. Learning from a book or hearing from live speakers in not reality. Students need to be out in the field. Relate all classes to a real world job experience.

129	Arts and Sciences	For all majors, offer negotiation courses or seminars to better prepare students for negotiating throughout their careers.

I recall receiving minimal 'facetime' with my advisor - only initially with academic counseling. Consider mandatory academic support in course selection to better attain professional aspirations/goals for each student.

131	Arts and Sciences	Greater emphasis on academics!!! Those of us who were serious students often felt neglected because the emphasis was strongly on other areas. I didn't feel like academic excellence was recognized as strongly as say volunteering. Also, there was nobody to help when it came time to apply to graduate schools, nobody knew the procedure and I was completely on my own.
132	Arts and Sciences	Have more diversity off clases in general curriculum
133	Arts and Sciences	Help provide real life experiences in thw work force. Go to place that people with your degree would have and observe them for a week.

135	Arts and Sciences	I belonged to the Erasmus program. This program significantly contributed to my life but was only offered your sophomore year. I would offer this program or programs like this every year! It also would have also been helpful to take a class about spirituality and religions. It might be changed now but I took my religion requirement courses and wished for more courses to explore my spirituality.
136	Arts and Sciences	I did not live on campus and was rarely on campus for any period of time except for class meetings and research. As a result, I missed out on a lot of college activities, in part because I had little knowledge of what was available. Increased outreach to those students who commute to campus might be advisable.
137	Arts and Sciences	I didn't feel that my coursework had a strong theoretical grounding (social theory), which would have helped me in grad school. I also lamented the lack of an anthropology department.
138	Arts and Sciences	I feel like my tuition at USF was essentially wasted and I could have received an equal (or better) education at city college. USF is big Jesuit talk with little to no action - unless its hypocritical.

139	Arts and Sciences	I found most of my professors to be very inspiring, but outside of the school of business few had 'connections' in the Bay Area beyond the realm of academia. Perhaps this has now changed though I believe every department should be equipped with knowledgable advisors with real world links to guide future graduates (and future alumni donors) toward viable career or continuing education options.
140	Arts and Sciences	I had a wonderful experience at USF. Immediately following college I went through a period of time where I floundered, not really knowing which path in life to take. I think that this is a normal transition for young adults coming out of college; however, it caught me completely by surprise. I think USF could help students navigate this transition by doing more job exploration and mentoring by advisors (not just about classes, etc., but also next steps).
141	Arts and Sciences	I loved my science courses at USF and feel I got a very good education, considering the size and budget of the department, in Chemistry. However, I thought most of the other courses outside my major lacked educational rigor. I enjoyed my time at USF but I feel any college education dose not really prepare a student for direct employment.
142	Arts and Sciences	I personally think the computer science department has already done an excellent job in creating a better education experience for the current students. The community connections not only empower the students to appreciate what they can do, they help the student to learn how they will have to apply their solution in a real world setting and see their impact. This will expose the students to challenges and elements they may not have control of which will help them to prepare for the real world.
143	Arts and Sciences	I see that USF is constantly improving itself, and that is all I could hope for.
144	Arts and Sciences	I think it is doing a good job now in offering more minors and specilties in degress. (i.e. ESS)

145	Arts and Sciences	I think that more interconnectedness between departments is a good thing. Any program which helps foster this helps create more broad-minded students. I think that making a consultation with the career center mandatory would be a good thing. Some students will go out of their way to use those resources, but others would benefit from a slight push in the right direction. Getting a firmer grasp on career goals during Sophmore or Junior year would give students more time to adjust their class schedule to suit those goals.
146	Arts and Sciences	I think that more support for students who are graduating to find jobs that fit their interests is invaluable. In particular, I feel like arts and humanitites majors might be well trained but might find it difficult to find work. Some friends of mine who graduate from USF felt like they had no choice but to pursue graduate education because their BA wasn't enough. I think that a BA is oftentimes enough if you know where to look for jobs and who to talk to. More career services at the department level would be helpful as it seems department specific.
147	Arts and Sciences	I think that USF could provide more resources to the sports programs, and could hopefully expand the study abroad program.
148	Arts and Sciences	I think the biggest thing that I noticed from your questions that cultural awareness in a bigger spectrum at USF is needed- without knowing how it has changed since them. I felt less when I was studied that USF or either my peers as a whole saw this as their own interest. I ended up needing to look for my own enrichment in classes, clubs, and as a RA which I think made my journey at USF more enriching.
149	Arts and Sciences	I think the education should take into consideration the diversity of it's student population.
150	Arts and Sciences	I think USF provides a good education overall. I believe the general education courses could be more developed and less broad. Broad courses are somewhat obsolete now that the internet provides so much information.
151	Arts and Sciences	I very much enjoyed my time at USF. The only change I would make is to not have quite so many requirements as to allow those students who want to have both a major and minor to also take a few electives.

152	Arts and Sciences	I wish i had been more strongly encouraged to choose a major earlier on. I wish that some type of service learning had been required, and that internships were strongly advised for all students. As a biology major who did not want to go into medicine, dentistry or biotech, i feel like i fell through the cracks. It has taken me 10 years to get back to a field related to science - i'm currently a grants analyst at the UCSF Comprehensive Cancer Center.
153	Arts and Sciences	I would change the food served to more natural foods. I strongly believe that improves mental and overall health thereby improving the ability to learn and socialize. I would also have classes designed for goal writing, exploring passions and financial management classes. I would offer more entrepreneurial classes.
154	Arts and Sciences	I would make team work an integral part of the organization. Also i would try to make the undergraduate studies more academic and more rigorous so as to prepare students who go into a graduate track. Maybe implement some sort of advanced system for students who want to pursue graduate degrees.
155	Arts and Sciences	I would say that there needs to be welcoming programs for transfers. I felt like I had to really work hard at integrating myself into the school.
156	Arts and Sciences	I'd like to see USF improve their radio and other media facilities. I know a television station has started since I left, but I think better facilities and marketing of these facilities could lead to better prepared individuals for the media workforce. KUSF should not be a traditional radio station, but rather, an almost commercially ran station of a certain format. Such a station would better prepare students looking into the industry.

159	Arts and Sciences	In looking back, I think one thing that would have dramatically increased my academic and overall USF experience would have been having a different type of academic advisor. Undergraduate advisors, especially for young students, fulfill many roles. Having a full time faculty member act as an academic advisor was frustrating, given my previous positive experience with my high school guidance counselor. If the format has not already changed, I would suggest having academic advisors fully devoted to the students and not trying to fullfil two roles, as professor and advisor.
160	Arts and Sciences	In my opinion USF should work to provide stronger programs in the hard sciences. Currently, the local business community sees USF's undergraduate program as primarily an accounting school or a nursing school. The fact of the matter is that Bay Area employers are looking for people with more computer skills and bio-tech skills. While the multi-disciplinary approach to a liberal arts education certainly fosters the critical thinking skills people need to solve problems, and the USF approach is one which also encourages personal development and tolerance of others, these are not traits that get people jobs. Too many kids graduate from college with no clearly defined job

162	Arts and Sciences	Include Optometry in health professions networking activities. Other health care professions were well represented when I was there, but optometry was not. I'm not sure if this has changed. California is the only state with two optometry schools in Berkeley and Fullerton. Pre-optometry students attending USF could benefit from these networking opportunities.

164	Arts and Sciences	Increase the amount of upper level art history courses, and make them REQUIRED for art history majors. The one part of my education/major that i feel dissatisfied with is the lack of Art History courses available, and the lack of diversity in Art History professors. Offering art history as a competitive major involves much more art history knowledge- in writing, cristicism, and the contemporary market.
165	Arts and Sciences	Increased advisor access and availability throughout the college experience, but particularly through freshman year. Thoughtful guidance. I look back now and know I should have pursued a degree in the sciences, but all incoming undeclared students were diverted to Arts advisors.
166	Arts and Sciences	It would have been useful to have a economics class as a requirement for my Politics degree. That has been one of the more useful classes from my Masters program.
167	Arts and Sciences	Keep examining all students of all types of educationa backgrounds. I was a medicore student in SAT scores, but had alot of drive and determination. While at USF I took 18 units/ 6 classes a semester and worked 30 hours a week. I was able to attain a 3.7 gpa and deans list honors; my 2 years after transferring from a community college. Directly after school, I was admitted and went on to Law school. While on the face of my academic record, I would be considered medicore. But USF helped provide me the place and tools needed to flourish. Please continue to look at people and not statistics and grades. It benefited me.

181	Arts and Sciences	More technical based on what actually happens in the real world. Less qualitative.
182	Arts and Sciences	Move away from a very single-minded political focus.
183	Arts and Sciences	My disatisfaction with my undergraduate coursework has more to do with my current career and professional interests rather than the quality of the educational experience. I majored in Philosophy (which I loved) with a minor in environmental science; I wish I had taken more quantitative coursework (more math, econ, finance) and more international political economy courses. USF could raise the bar, however, increase the difficulty of course work (require more reading, drawing from wider sources).
184	Arts and Sciences	My overall education at USF was a good one. The other things that I had to deal with there (ie, administration, Financial Aid, among other offices on campus) were less than satisfactory. By the end of my 4 years at USF I felt that I had not only done all my 'school work' but had also completed the work that the financial aid office was suppossed to complete.

185	Arts and Sciences	My parents enrolled me into the SII program when I was a Freshman. At the time I hated it because I was surrounded by crazy strict Catholic classmates. Since I am not Catholic there were times that I felt very much an outsider. But looking back I appreciate the 'classical Jesuit education' I recieved. My study of logic and of the classic arguments are priceless. I feel that those handful of classes played an imense role in developing my powers of reason and the understanding of human nature. Thus I belive that USF, in order to provide a better education, could expand core requirements to include some seminar topics from the SII curriculum.

187	Arts and Sciences	None, the educational opportunities are excellent. You get out what you put in to your educational experience in college, in my opinion.
188	Arts and Sciences	One of my key issues with USF in the Biology program was the lack of a Service Learning course for my major. Additionally, there were minimal study abroad programs for science majors and the science facilities were greatly in need of modern upgrades. As a transfer student, I found that there was not enough information about how my transferred coursework/credits would fit into my educational program prior to the matriculation process. This lack of information ultimately led to a deferred graduation date, due to the necessity of taking additional classes that I believed would meet my degree. Compounding this situation was the fact that, if I wanted to try to take add

I wish USF had a better program to begin with when I started. I'm currently applying for my master's degree in speech therapy/occupational therapy.
191	Arts and Sciences	Provide better advising! The advising system at USF is deplorable. Faculty would rather sign off on forms and give students incorrect information that actually educate themselves as to what a students requirements are and provide proper advising.

198	Arts and Sciences	Require undergraduates to take computer courses such as excel or access to better help them when they leave college to pursue their profession. May want to incorporate some of these computer programs within specific course such as economics, accounting, marketing, etc.
199	Arts and Sciences	Since my major was biology, I would definitely recommend USF devoting more time, energy and most importantly money in updating the science department. Also, USF science faulty should encourage more science undergraduates to take part in research projects especially for those students who have an interest not only those who have exceptional GPAs. Promoting research for all students enables them to apply what they have learned in their classes. The USF science faulty should also present more updated and practical science techniques in their labs in order to prepare students well for work (ex. industry). There should also be more of an encouragement for science students

203	Arts and Sciences	The courses I took in the Biology department were not challenging enough and did not prepare me for graduate studies. I feel that the advisors should have pushed me me to take higher level math courses and more science courses that would have strengthened my undergrad resume. In retrospect, the biggest problem was that I never really had a set advisor. In four years I think I had five advisors. My educational goals and path were never properly advised. I excelled in my coursework but could ave been better prepared for my post-USF life if I had taken more appropriate coursework. For many graduate programs that I am looking to enter now, I would have to go back and take
204	Arts and Sciences	The general ed curriculum was always very heavy and restricted my ability to concentrate on aspects of my education I was more seriously interested in. While it is important, my last view of the general ed could have been streamlined and modified to provide students with more flexibility.
205	Arts and Sciences	The master program in chemistry should provide students with the opportunity to take different graduate science classes. When I did my master the only two classes available for graduate students in chemistry were Thesis Writing and Graduate Research Methods.
206	Arts and Sciences	The quality of some of the professors led something to be desired. We just raced through all the courses without the benefit of time to digest the information. In my opinion, the Blackboard computer exercises were a waste of time, I'd rather be researching some paper. I posted just to post; found no value in the process.
207	Arts and Sciences	There must be a stronger emphasis placed on critical writing and researching skills. I would advocate for there to be more emphasis placed on students pursuing graduate and professional degrees. Overall, USF did not prepare me adequately for my graduate school, education endeavors. I believe for the amount of money that I paid to attend this school, I was not prepared well enough to perform on a competitive level in a graduate school environment. The first year of my law school career was spent 'catching up' to other students who were of similar age and academic abilities.

208	Arts and Sciences	THEY WERE JUST BUILDING THE SERVICE LEARNING COURSES DURING MY TIME AND I SEE A NEED TO STRENGTHEN THOSE TYPES OF REQUIREMENTS, ENCOURAGING STUDENTS TO GET MORE INVOVLED IN THE COMMUNITY. NOT ONLY VOLUNTEERING, BUT EXPLORING DIFFERENT FIELDS, NETWORKING OUTSIDE THE UNIVERSITY, AND TO GAIN GENERAL EXPERIENCE FOR THE TRANSITION AFTER GRADUATION.
209	Arts and Sciences	To provide more military sciences courses relating to other branches of service (i.e., Navy, Marine, Air Force)
210	Arts and Sciences	Updated lab equipment.
211	Arts and Sciences	USF has everything going for it except the student and Alumni connection. Most students seem to go to class then go home. After they graduate they loose contact. Other schools, like Berkley or Stanford, establish a much stronger connection with their students. I believe this can be done by creating and unforgettable overall 'college experience' that make students loyel for life. This will make students more excited about going to school, keep the alumni involved, and bring in more donations.
212	Arts and Sciences	USF should extend itself into the city of San Francisco more. Many natives hardly know where USF is, or that it even exists. There is a huge population of native San Franciscans that know nothing about the university and what it has to offer.
213	Arts and Sciences	USF taught many things, but didn't promote thinking outside the box and how the education relates to the world outside of school. Some of the lessons learned from college is more the application of things taught, not necessarily what is in a textbook. This application allows to segway between what is being learned and its purpose for taking the time. I went to school to learn, but would've gotten even more out of it if I can see how it related to everything.
214	Arts and Sciences	When I attended USF, the university was switching to a part time staff of professors. I feel that this severely undercut the value of the education I was supposed to receive. Educators were less involved in campus life, less available to students and everyone was frustrated with the changes.

215	Arts and Sciences	When I attended, the curriculum in Computer Science didn't cover enough theory for getting into graduate programs. In general, the General Education Curriculum was not academically rigorous enough some of my high school classes were better (I went to a Jesuit high school, so that standards were set pretty high already).
216	Arts and Sciences	When I was an undergrad, I felt it was a bit silly to require two semesters of a foreign language for students in the Sciences. Now I am sure of it; that time would have been better spent in a lab or in a technical writing course.
217	Arts and Sciences	When I was an undergraduate internship classes were optional. I beleive in order for a student to successfully make the transition from college application to business application within their field of study internship programs and job placement services should be mandatory. Entry level job positions are typically limited to current college students or those who already have a commection to the company through an internship. Network, Network, Network! It's really all about who you know.
218	Arts and Sciences	While I participated in 2 study abroad programs, I would have appreciated a more organized and better managed center for study abroad. I also would have liked to have been encouraged to do internships.
219	Arts and Sciences	While I throughly enjoyed my experience at USF and appreciate the education I received, I think I could have benefitted from additional internship opportunities and perhaps greater awareness of the opportunities to apply the information I learned in teh classroom. What internships I participated in I found on my own and, as a result, they were poorly organized. I think every effort to ground classroom curriculums in the realities of the professional environment will benefit students. Perhaps work with professors to encourage students to participate in internships or volunteer activities. When I was there, the professional and academic realms seemed entirely separate.

220	Arts and Sciences	Worry less about promoting a facade of diversity. Diversity is not - by itself - a trophy. If the faculty and administration were to pray for guidance daily, the value of a USF education would quickly increase. It seems that USF has been forced to accept its place as a third-tier academic institution and is struggling to find something to hold up as uniquely its ownwhat it brings to the table. The answer is: not much anymore, unless one finds fulfillment in diluted spirituality and largely impotent gestures of social justice.

And this is also true for a number of other graduates.
002	Business	USF is a great Institution!	As a Mexican Immigrant/Female/Minority, USF is the best thing that has ever happen in my educational life. I am very thankful to USF for all the opportunities they provided me.
003	Business	Are there a lot of volunteering programs in the local communities?	Do not necessarily think that alumni events should be held outside of San Francisco. But I no longer live in the state, so it's hard to attend. I think the understanding of other people's religious values is probably the most valuable experience I walked away with from USF.
004	Business	Lower the cost of tuition	Give alumnis better pricing for games and gym memberships.
005	Business	1) Increase funding for Athletics. This brings attention to the University. In addition, I feel this would give students something to rally around and be proud of. 2) Also, the networking/internship programs could be improved. USF has an amazing network of professionals in the Bay Area that is extremely underutilized in helping the student body find job opportunities and connections. The resources just don't seem to be there.	I am dissapointed with the results of the campaign to renovate War Memorial gym. I think the University needs to pay attention to the fact that Santa Clara and Gonzaga and other West Coast Conference schools are making strides in athletics and benefitting from an academic standpoint.
006	Business	I think there should be more services either offered in the Career Center for career counseling or a class for freshman and/or transfer students that is related to this. It is so difficult as a young adult to know exactly what direction you would like to take in your life. Also, I think there should be more courses on public speaking and persuasive debate and persuasive writing. I feel as if I did not learn these important skills at USF.	I am extremely grateful for having had the opportunity to receive my college education at USF. It's the best time I had in my life! I learned so much and met so many wonderful and talented people. It's fantastic the amount of grants offered to low income families. USF really ensures that money or socioeconomic standing of a student does not get in the way of their education. Thank you so much for this valuable experience that I will always cherish in my heart, mind and soul.
007	Business	Help with the expense. More options for financial aid and how to find that money, instead of being in debt up to a person's eyeballs when they graduate.	I am so proud to tell people where I graduated from, there has always been a great reputation attached to this university. I loved my educational experience and I would not trade any of it for the world. I got a wonderful education and I get to put my learning to practical use as well as technical use.

008	Business	Not sure, I believe USF is darn near perfect. I had a wonderful, educational experience. If anything, maybe if professors didn't offer so much extra credit for listening to lectors. This should be a requirement!	I can never say enough great things about USF. I am constantly buying items at the bookstore still (clothes), and everyone is well aware of my DONS pride. I enjoyed USF tremendously! The dorms were great, the cafeteria were awesome, should I go on? The best part of my experience at USF (besides meeting great fellow students in the business department) was the fabulous professors.
009	Business	I was dissatisfied with many of professors teaching ability. I had two professors whose English comprehension was unacceptableone of which never responded to a student question with an answer. I believe teaching ability is the most important skill for a teacher. I strongly believe that tenure should be abolished, and job security should be achieved by performance. That said, I did have several excellent professors, I would just like to have studied under more of them.	I found that the poor english skills of international students has resulted in lowered academic expectations. I would like to see less focus on 'multi-culturalism' and 'diversity' and more 'academic excellence.'
010	Business	I think that certain schools within USF have better reputations than other. I believe that the McLaren School of Business was a fantastic experience. I also believe that business schools are judged by reputation, not just the quality of education, so I hope that USF will continue advertising their unique qualities, such as the Jesuit perspective and the unique opportunities available in the Bay area. I do hope the school becomes more competitive with admissions as I also believe this is a factor that creates a certain reputation.	I hope USF can become more of a nationally renowned school instead of a regional school. As noted above, there are very few schools that have the uniqueness of USF. These qualities should be flaunted. The education I received was fantastic and it got me to where I am today.
011	Business	USF is a great school that I have and will continue to recommend to others, however, I do warn people that it is not a place for 'open' ideas unless those ideas are decidedly left leaning. Further, I inform them that by my estimation, USF is diverse for the sake of being diverse and oftentimes I found myself working with less-than-qualified classmates. Diversity is an issue I support, but bringing the best, brightest, and most promising students who will have an impact on the world should be priority number one with secondary consideration given to the number of colors displayed on the pie chart on the diversity page of the admissions catalog.	I think there should be a fifth option in the survey that falls in between 'Well' and 'Poorly.' There are certain things that I do not feel the University does poorly, however, I do not feel comfortable having this survey reflect that I think things are done 'well' for fear that no action will be taken in these fields to make them better. I believe an 'Agree/Disagree/Somewhat Agree/Disagree' format would be far more useful if improving the quality of the University is the true intent of this survey.

012	Business	Now that I have chosen a career outside of my major, I wish I had placed more emphasis on my core classes. The writing classes are essential and I can't believe I only had to take one! The Hospitality Program really prepared me for interviews and the whole job seeking process, and I know there were students in other majors who were jealous! It's a Professional Development class we had to take, but it could be for everyone. Looking back, I think a class like that should be mandatory. It covered interviewing skills, resume and cover letter writing, etc.	I think this survey really would have benefitted from another option that said 'no impact' or 'adequate' or 'satisfactory'. I feel that there's a big difference between answering 'well' and 'poorly', and I was often left hoping for something in the middle.
013	Business	•	I thoroughly enjoyed my experience at USF.
014	Business		I truly received a great education from USF and recommend it to friends and family who are looking to continue their education. USF's reputation speaks for itself.
015	Business	None	I would be most interested in starting an alumni chapter in Northeast Ohio. How could this be accomplished? Might there be a way to provide me with the contact information of any other USF alumni in Northeast Ohio?
016	Business	Try to create more of a community among the students it seems as though many people are there for the city, not the school.	In your push for promoting diversity, don't let it create division amongst ethnic/racial groups. I often felt as though everyone was so busy celebrating their differences that we completely ignored what we have in common, which I feel resulted in ethnic/racial cliques.
017	Business		It was difficult for me to answer many questions because of the strong influence my friends and family exert on my values and interpersonal relations. Also I was simply a lackluster student and isolated person during my undergraduate years, which is why I did not reap full benefit from the academic and non-academic offerings herethere is only so much an institution can do if its members decline to stir themselves to go half-way and meet what is offered. I do want to express that I think my undergrad experience here has indeed helped shape my critical thinking, education, and viewpoint, in positive or constructive ways. However I find it hard to disentangle from the influence of having worked here for 7 years, which has been a wonderful experience and has helped develop my education further.

019	Business		More school spiritthe school is very much like a commuter college dressed nicely. USF should be a landmark in San Francisco as Stanford is a landmark in Palo Alto.For as much money that was spent to attend the university, there should be more recognition of the university being top tier. Also, how does the school identify as being a Catholic and wholly embracing transgenderness and homosexuality? Has the Catholic church wholly embraced the views that the university does? I had always wondered about this.
020	Business	Core classes - the professors hated teaching them and the students hated going to them, provide some options or variation so people can make choices, it will help people develop. For example Cabrillo College in Aptos, CA has English classes with themes: Indian Americans, Philosophy, Africa, etc.	More technology, I was not required to take one class in technology, nor was it a part of any of my classes. All industries use it and continue to develop their tools whether it be applications or hardware, both need to be taken in to account.
021	Business		nil
022	Business		ONE THING I DIDN'T GET AT USF WAS MORE OF A SOCIAL LIFE. BETTER CLUBS OR SORORITIES WOULD GET ME MORE INVOLVED IN USF ACITIVITIES AND MAKE ME FEEL MORE TIED TO USF, HENCE MORE PROUD OF USF.
023	Business		Overall USF was a great experience.
024	Business	Revamp the Dept-Philosophy significantly. Like Cornell University-Separate the Hospitality Management Industry Major from School of Business and Management. Streamline the curriculum to that of L'Ecole Hoteliere de Lausanne, Switzerland wherein I did prior undergraduate work prior to USF. USF Students should participate in Food Prep, Service, Beverage/Wines (Napa Growers participate Separate Dining Facilities/Kitchen Facilities for students to get on the job practical work/training. The Chef is non-productive there!	Replace the School of Business Undergraduate Director with a Jesuit to refine the process, and disciplines accordingly.

025	Business	Networking, internships, job-placement The University did not help me make any contacts for post-graduate work. Internships were not readily available. The career site was a joke. Many of the postings were from mass-produced 'work from home' sales positions. I could help future graduates get jobs at my current employer, but the University only seems to ask me for monetary donations.	The business classes were too focused on group work. Not everyone works with a group 24/7 in the real world. Delegation is understandable, but the classes should have been more structured. Also, the Dean's office was unorganized and unavailable. I never felt like the Business School was supporting my growth as a student. Appointments with the Dean were next to impossible to get and many of the professors were jaded ex-professionals who treated students as competition. There were a few business professors who went out of their way to impact each student, but most didn't bother to learn more about you than your name. I also found it offensive that business professors would drink with students currently enrolled in their classes. I expected more from a small, private university. I actually find the bureaucracy of Corporate America easier to deal with than the School of Business. On the other end of the spectrum, all of the liberal arts classes that I took were wonderful. I just wouldn't recommend the business department to anyone.
026	Business		The career center needs to be improved because it served me no good while I attended USF. They need to bring in other types of industries so that all students have the opportunity of finding jobs.
027	Business	I believe you are. The level of construction/new facilities underway is impressive. I recall many of the facilities (expcetion being Koret) when I attended were very dated. The new library, business building, law school, and I believe now a sciences bldg. This is all wonderful and something I wish could have been during my time at USF. Attracting top talent (professors) many times comes down to facilities and USF is developing world class facilities.	The Jesuit education I received at USF is something I look back on with great pride. I firmly believe in the well-rounded education provided by a Jesuit University such as USF (and I am a Christian, but not Catholic). Appreciation for the arts, world religions, civics, etc are not stressed enough in many undergrad programs. I have a 2yr old and when the time comes I will encourage her to put USF on her list for undergrad education.
028	Business		The networking opportunities and career center were lacking in my opinion.
029	Business	Continue offering coop programs in design with the Academy of Art College.	The reason why I chose to come and study at USF is because it was offering a coop program with the Academy of Art College. At the time coming from a business background, I was not sure I wanted to work in the design field. USF helped me figured that out. I could finish my business classes at USF, and at the same time take design classes at the Academy of Art.

030	Business		The survey is interesting in the ways the questions are posed. It assumes alot about an individual prior to arriving at USF. At times, I wanted to answer that it was my upbringing and my family values that I brought with me and it wasn't all USF- maybe they were shaped further or changed. The questions assume quite a bit about an individual.
031	Business	Require more of a mix of outside classes in addition to class writing. I learned a tremendous amount from the writing, portfolio preparation and class presentations but gained a lot when I mixed outside classes. When I took additional classes through USF they were so interesting and broadened my appreciation of the world and skills in general. One class I am thinking of is archeology. The instructor was wonderful and gave me insite into another world of how to problem solve I had never considered. We did a field trip to Drake's Bay that I will never forget!	The whole process of going through class with the same people for 2 years was wonderful. I have made friends that I treasure and still do things with after all these years.
032	Business	Encourage all students to get involved in supporting their athletic teams. I have been to many sporting events at USF this past year and I was dissapointed to see lack of the of student support. By developing student participation it improves the overall college experience.	Upgrade the athletic facilities. I noticed they are planning a 6 million dollar improvement of War Memorial. 6 million is a drop in the bucket - WMG is home to all USF teams and needs a major refurbishing. It should be a show piece of USF Athletics. USF's administration should realize that they can raise more $$$ if their atletic programs are successful.
033	Business	Create a mandatory internship for students in the field of Pubic Administration to provide experience, knowledge of vast number of opportunities in this field, mentoring and networking.	USF is a wonderful institution that has strong educational and work ethics.
034	Business	*Increase the opportunities for much more student involvement in campus activities. *Have higher standards when it comes to writing and public speaking in class. *Promote USF throughout the SF Bay Area (at the very least) so people become aware of the great university in San Francisco. I'm amazed how many people within SF who don't know USF exists.	Your survey should be more finely graduated, so as not to force a positive or negative answer. There were quite a few questions that I felt indifferent on and would've appreciated having an option between Well and Poorly. However, I appreciate being asked to participate. Best of luck.

042	Business	I am a proud alumnus of USF and one of three in my family to graduate from the school. However, the programs offered both inside and outside of the classroom have become social, cultural, sensitivity-awareness disaster. The Board of Trustees may want to consider changing the name of the school to the University of Political Correctness. I graduated within the upper-end of my class with a degree in Business Administration/Finance and was at a competitive disadvantage when entering the workforce. At 22, I could talk to you for hours about the needs of the underprivileged and repressed around the world, but my competition ran circles around me when it came to profess

043	Business	I often hear from other friends and alumni that we leave the University without a solid foundation in personal finance. The University teaches us tools that we can use to get a job and make money, but it fails to give us a solid foundation on how to save money, invest money, and how to buy our first home or car. I strongly believe that a well rounded University education should include personal finance education. This is especially true for the non-Business majors. Many of my non-business major friends struggle with personal finances. They have a job and understand how to make money, but they don't understand how to save, let alone have the foresight to invest.
044	Business	I really liked the education USF provided to me.
045	Business	I think education continues after graduation. I do not live in the Bay Area but was very involved in the SAA but there is nothing in the Texas area and I think that is a shame. It would be nice to be able to network with other alums who don't live in the Bay Area.
046	Business	I wish USF offered more technical and technological programs within the business major. Also, the curriculum within the School of Business is outdated and needs to be updated to modern practices and realities. Finally, USF lacks an engineering discipline which places its graduates at a competitive disadvantage in the tech world.
047	Business	I would like to see what I consider 'real life' education. Classes that focus on investing, maintaining wealth, insurance, taxes, etc.
048	Business	I'm currently attaining my MBA at Creighton University, and the things that I've enjoyed about my experience here are the speakers that come to school, and the projects we've worked on with local businesses and organizations. USF could bring in more speakers from the local business world to speak or lead discussions on various topics. I believe the USF is opening a business incubator in the new business building; allowing students to work with these businesses will be a huge boost. Otherwise, I think USF does a good job of integrating students, creating a community, and providing opportunities for every student to learn about every discipline.
049	Business	Improve library material, expedite access process, increase technology availability and assistance. Provide educational workshops in local Sacramento area.

059	Business	Offer up-to-date technology information. (How it's used, how it applies to real world problem-solving) If you have to get a few adjuncts in to teach this, do it. It's really important in an interview that your grads be conversant in technology solutions. I was humiliated in two interviews due to this lack of preparation.
060	Business	Please start some academic scholarships. There is not enough emphasis on academic performance at USF. At the time that I was a student, there was not even one full academic scholarship. I will not donate any money to USF until academic scholarships are a priority.
061	Business	Professors are either great or horrible. USF should better gauge the effectiveness of instructors. The problems within the schools administration and biases towards certain groups are very apparent to the student body.
062	Business	Require each student hours of internship in their related field of education before graduating.
063	Business	The education is top-notch. However, USF could better integrate itself into the city of San Francisco (perhaps analyzing NYU's position in the city of New York as a model) and could also do a better job of marketing itself nationally and globally. The problem is that no one has heard of it outside California.

065	Business	USF need to get a better career service center both for undergraduate and graduate students. The school need to work on creating relationships with companies in the bay area, so they want to hire USF graduates. USF did hot assist in my job search, and as an undergrad with no work experience it can be very hard to do this on your own. As an MBA graduate from USF I did not get any help with my job search, the only help I got was writing my resume. If USF improve their career services center it will attract better students, and increase the reputation of the school.

001	CPS	Better integrate the CPS program with the rest of the university to provide an equal educational opportunity for working adults and allow them to graduate with honors.	A lot of these questions weren't applicable to my experience because I attended the CPS Orange Campus. I was disappointed that I wasn't able to receive the honors I qualified for because I attended CPS, I had the actual credits but not actual classroom hours. Understand, I was 37 with a 2 year old, working full time while I attended CPS. I didn't even have enough credits to get in when I originally applied. With the advice of the admissions counselor I took telecourses, and CLEP tests and was able to get in the next March. I received an excellent education thru CPS and found myself qualified and able to get through an arduous JD program and obtain a Masters in Environmental law as well.
002	CPS	The areas I did not mark USF high in this survey have more to do with the nature of the program I attended than the USF experience in general. The school should continue to find ways to improve the CPS program to have more of the attributes of the full-time program. For example, maybe the program could have a couple of the first classes with some of the other CPS programs, so you can form a relationship with people outside of your cohort.	Additionally, the alumni should have access to a web based community directory of all of the alumni to help build a stronger bond post-graduation, even if limited to the program attended.
003	CPS	Satellite campuses would benefit from better mass transit to the main campus, such as a van, and from some form of lab for hands-on practice, not just a library.	All in all, I recieved a very good education. I would not have the salary I do now without USF, nor the enjoyment of life. CPS as a whole and the satellite campuses are no doubt suffering financially from the tech slowdown, but they are valuable to the a specific segment of the population, and should be aggresively modernized to attract new students.
004	CPS	I found that a lot of these questions were geared more towards 4 year students, than those that either transferred or were in the CPS group. I chose USF due to it's name recognition and it is a Jesuit institution that had classes conducive to my work schedule. I believe that this survey doesn't accurately gauge the success of CPS students. The majority of the students in this program are much more defined in their careers and don't receive some of the spiritual and religious guidance that is typically available to undergrad students attending on the main campus. It would be nice to include these same students in retreats, networking affairs, & social gatherings	Although the Jesuit mission is for the pursuit of education, I also feel that USF has an obligation of spreading the gospel. I'm not saying that faculty and staff have to begin proselytizing and converting all students to the Catholic faith, but faculty and staff should not be preaching the exact opposite teachings of Catholicism.Sex is on every college campus whether we choose to acknowledge it or not. Instead of offering condoms to students (they can get this at a local Planned Parenthood if they really want them or they can buy them themselves.), there should be some office on-site for counseling and referral to adoption agencies and such. I for one, would be willing to help fund such a venture.

005	CPS	My cohort in the CPS program never seemed to bond. Perhaps this is normal in adult education environments. I often wondered if having a lead instructor follow the group over the course of the program would have helped.	As a mature adult, I often felt that my time in the CPS program simply documented the knowledge, values, etc. that I already had acquired and I was just going through a process to support the person I had become so that I could move forward in my career with the credentials that I needed. I didn't find the course work very challenging, however, I was totally surprised when I realized that I was graduating with honors - a honor held by a small percentage of the graduating class. It was easy for me. So, my experience probably wasn't any different than all of the others!!!!! The alumni association in the Sacramento seems entirely supported by retired Alumni. Events are held at times when working adults would be unable to participate. Maybe trips to events on the main campus would be of interest - going down on the train or bus once in a while. I feel that this survey would have been better if the CPS students were surveyed separately. Many of the questions asked were not relevant to me at all as an Adult learner in an advanced ev
006	CPS	I believe the university does an excellent job of providing an education that espouses its stated principles relative to social responsibility. The campus and student body is diverse and should continue to be.	As an alumnus, I feel very connected to the university due, in large part, to the ongoing email communications I receive from the university. Many of these involve lectures on campus, some of which sound ver interesting, it is not always clear if the lectures are open to current students only or other in the community.

011	CPS	USF did a very good job in preparing me for my teaching credential work (at SF state) and graduate work (at UC Berkeley). I felt very well prepared compared to some of my graduate peers. However, I did take my courses in the early to mid 90'x and didn't get much in the way of internet or computer technology and nothing in terms of sexual orientation discussion. I'm confident that this has changed in the last ten years.	I am proud to be a graduate of USF!!

012	CPS	USF needs to provide better interaction between the CPS students and the 'main stream' campus. It seems as though CPS students are treated as 'secondary' students, they don't have the same opportunities for experiencing college the way traditional students do, which is unfortunate, as many CPS students look forward to an enjoyable, memorable college experience.	I am thankful and proud of the education I received at USF. I also think there is always room for improvement.
013	CPS		I attended '92-94 at the Stockton Campus (which has since closed) and was unable to participate in on-campus functions. I am still impressed by the educational and professional opportunities provided to the USF community and would have taken advantage of these opportunities if I lived near campus.
014	CPS	I cannot think of anything - Thank you for providing the excellent education and services we've come to expect from USF.	I chose USF for my undergraduate and graduate education for two reasons: 1) Convenience. The BS dregree-completion and masters programs I was interested in were being offered here in Santa Rosa in the evening (location and time); and 2) Reputation. USF's reputation for quality education. Also, in regard to the alumni association I believe I paid a high price for my education, albiet an excellent education, but that is what I expected. I do not think I owe the university further. Lastly, I convinced my daughter to complete her education at USF here in Santa Rosa and is currently enrolled.
015	CPS	I was in the CPS applied economics program and I do not believe I was well prepared for the MSFA program (completed 2006). I believe a greater emphasis needs to be placed on statistical analysis in the undergrad programs.	I did enjoy and get a lot out of my graduate program but was disappointed in the quality of my undergrad education.
016	CPS	A virtual campus. I travel extensively and would like to earn a graduate degree at USF, but cannot since I cannot attend class regularly.	I enjoyed my time at USF and would recommend the school to anyone seeking a high quality education.
017	CPS		i enjoyed my time at USF. It was so great that I completed two teaching credentials there and I plan to continue my schooling.
018	CPS		I enjoyed the service learning portion of the curriculum. My experience with USF motivated me to further my education, so, as a single mother, I could return to an organization that gives back to the community in which I live; but, in a professional position, so I could have a more comfortable lifestyle.

019	CPS	The education at USF is great.	I found this survey somewhat confusing in that many of the questions were geared toward social and spiritual aspects of the USF experience. Those goals need to be clarified for students, since I don't remember much discussion of those aspects in the classroom. And, it is important that staff keep a balanced view versus becoming agressive in pushing certain social agendas. Exposure to a broad set of facts and diverse views is key, but promoting certain views should be left up to the individual.
020	CPS	The program I am currently in, CPS - MSOD, should have had a pre and post assessment on all students who are interested in the program. Do not accept students who has no clue what they are getting themselves into. Focus too much on theories, but missing the application piece. Compared to other OD programs offer by other universities, USF doesn't even come close to what the others schools are offering. If I should know then, I would have picked USF. Also, the networking piece is missing for the MSOD students. There is no OD community on campus. Director and faculty members rely on students to form their own netowrk. It makes it difficult for those who are new. How	I had experience a couple of professors who have no knowledge in teaching the class subject, yet they were there beacuse the school could not find an adjunct to cover the subject. That is a disadvantage for student who wants to know the subject well. We deserve the education and we are paying for it. It shouldn't be replace by someone who knows nothing about this subject. That was a waste our money and time. Regardless if we pass or not. That is violating one the USF values. Also, since we are CPS students, I don't understand why we have class in the Lone Mountains building. We should be using the CPS building. I believe it is built for a purpose, for the CPS students. Career Service could be improved to help master students. I don't see much offered in the career center.
021	CPS	Incorporate more technology into the courses. Help students understand how to use technology in everyday employment.	I have no idea what types of events the alumni association sponsors. I have never been contacted by alumni association. I would like to participate in some alumni events, but don't know how to get involved.
022	CPS	I beleive that the schools program is outstanding and I really don't see any academic changes- therefore it would be great if the school offered finacial support to those of lower income bracket that have academic scores but yet can not afford to go to private school without full scholorship.	I hope to actual come back and get my Master in CPS program.
023	CPS	To integrate CPS students and programs a bit better into the mainstream campus community.	I love USF. If it were not for CPS, I would not have been able to earn a college degree.
024	CPS	I attended the Oakland campus and sometimes it would have been helpful if the instructors were more assertive in keeping the classroom a philosophically and emotionally safe place in which to learn. Granted, we were a pretty ethnically and economically diverse cohort - a dynamic that would've challenged most instructors - but there were some real learning opportunities missed because the instructors didn't know how to facilitate racially-charged discourse.	I received individualized attention that helped me structure my academic program to minimize the time needed for me to graduate, and my employer actually waited for me to graduate from USF so that I could be promoted to the position I currently hold. Looking back I will always be grateful for their encouragement and patience, and as a supervisor I try to role model those qualities.

025	CPS	I enjoyed my time at USF while pursuing my CPS degree. I think it was an excellent way for me to pursue higher education. It was appropriate for me as a full time employee and as a parent.	I unfortunately graduated during the dot-com boom and could not find employment after leaving my job. I nevertheless pursued a vocational nursing education and I thank USF for preparing me with the ability to communicate, apply critical thinking, research and relate positively to people from different background. Everything I learned is applied to my daily activites at my current employment in some way or another. Makes me feel like a better person knowing that I can make a difference.
026	CPS		I was an 'mature' student coming back to complete my bachelor's. USF was the best experience I've ever had. The instructors through CPS were wonderful, gifted, and truly there for student success.
027	CPS	Have better resources for programs such as CPS.	I was very disappointed when I discovered that I was the only one in my class who was not invited to the orientation. I received zero support in job search. Six years after graduation, my loan balance has increased with interest, not sure when I will be able to pay it pack. To add insult to injury I continue to get letters from USF asking for donation for other students. WHERE WERE YOU WHEN I NEEDED HELP, AND WHERE ARE YOU NOW? Do you have a solution for me? Take a minute to reach out to your students and they will reach others for you! Rush a student in/out of your system and they will forever be lost! Even the best and the brightest.
028	CPS		I went into teaching; unfortunately, I was turned down by USF grad school although I had a 4.0 and all my letters of recommendation were from USF teachers. I suspect ageism by the young woman who interviewed me for the College of Education. This did not endear me to USF.
029	CPS	Please consider enhancing what is currently being offered in the CPS program. For example if Public Administration is going to be offered, there should be some additional areas to compliment it in terms of a masters program such as Public Policy or Legislative Analysis. I think that the way that CPS is currently offered suggests a feeling of being fragmented and disconnected to the rest of the USF community not only academically but in other areas as well.

030	CPS	Lower your tuition. I wanted to go back for a 2nd Bachelor's degree for nursing. Instead, I am in CCSF's program, (no complaints, it's excellent) but I would have loved to received my BSN from USF. I already own a home, have a family, so a student loan was out of the question. We couldn't afford to take on any more debt w/ just one income in the family.	I would have loved it if your people who came to the transfer center at CCSF would be more informative. I met w/ someone about 3 years ago, and I didn't find her very helpful. I did most of the legwork myself.
031	CPS	I would like USF to have one mandatory course of volunteering within San Francisco. I believe the students can become isolated within the USF campus and it would be nice for them to be more in tune with the social issues that exist within the City. Also, I believe it would encourage volunteerism in the long term.	I would like to see a stronger alumni network for the School of EducationI graduated with my Master's in December, 2006, and there has been literally no contact from the SOE since that time. It's as if I no longer exist at the SOEI believe that the retention of graduate alumni is critical to USFwe are the parents who are looking for education for our children!!
032	CPS	I would like to see a core curriculumn established to provide all students with a solid foundation in the pillars of Western Civilization - its arts, literature, history philosophy and theology, taught from a traditional, Catholic perspective and relying on primary texts, rather than the interpretation of those texts written by less skilled modern 'scholars'.	I would like to see USF more closely aligned with the teachings of the Church upon which it is based. Way too much time, energy and money is spent each year on projects and speakers that are diametrically opposed to the Church and its teachings. I found USF to be 'Catholic in name only' most of the time. I will NOT be sending my children to the school, nor recommending it to others, without a significant improvement in the degree to which the school supporta and mirrors the teachings of the Church.
033	CPS	Open a satellite school again in the Bay Area. I would like to work at the office as an Admissions Representative	I would like to teach Real Estate at University of San Francisco as I have been in Real Estate sales for 20 years.
034	CPS		I'm not sure what you are trying to find in your survey. As a transfer student, over 25 years of age, most of my values were set. While USF enhanced some awareness of others, it did little to change my way of thinking. I always considered myself open to others, their beliefs and values.
035	CPS	More outreach from advisor's to those of us who are not near a campus. Make us feel just as important as if we were attending oncampus courses.	I'm proud to be a Gradaute from USF. I am planning on returning in September to pursue my Master's in Public Administration.
036	CPS		In the cps program there is very strong writing component. The writing classes were taught in a manner that made our writing and arguments the focus of the exercise. The correctness of the ideas was not considered as a point of evaluation for assignments. After spending years kicking around the state collage system, this is a refreshing and I think correct way to teach writing. If I learned nothing else during my time at USF writing classes was money well. This is not true but it is without question a skill that serve very well for years to come.

037	CPS	none	It was a difficult, but fulfilling experience.
038	CPS	Meet with industry leaders and employers to find out what they are looking for in graduates from the CPS programs.	It would be nice if USF organized reunions from graduating classes of the CPS programs.
039	CPS	None, the education itself is wonderful.	It would be nice to see possible internships offered for students who have no experience in the field they are trying to get into. It is hard to get a job in today's marker with only a degree an no experience. I have been turned down many times because I only have the book smarts and no trail of 'on the job' smarts. It is a catch 22 when you have the required degree for a position, but not even enough experience or exposure to land an entry level position because your competition has a degree and experience.
040	CPS	I feel that our analysis of the professors and their deficiencies was grossly ignored. Some collected paychecks for very little work - not aligned with USF values.	Many of the values you assessed were obtained through my Jesuit education obtained elsewhere.

044	CPS	I graduated from CPS. Most of the questions are not applicable in my case. I did not enroll in to USF to become a better human. I think I already knew my values regarding faith, religion, humanity, multi-ethnic societly etc. prior to enrolling. To top it all, my major (Public Admin/NP) is not even listed in your drop down window. This shows how cut off the whole system of CPS is. I did not gain the value I was looking for after graduating from USF/CPS. I am sure it would have been a different scenario if I was in regular USF school. The service CPS is providing may be beneficial but in my case, I did not learn any technical innovations such as even using a simple Excel	Overall USF is a great institution but I think CPS can be improved by leaps and bounds. Also, I think there should be a scale to enter in to the CPS program based on a student's achievment and experince level. I strongly think that NOT all students enrolling in to the CPS programs are the right fit for this course and I would also doubt their success to the highest level unless one already has experince along with a decent professional job.Wish you all the best.
045	CPS		Please keep the CPS Cohort model. It's a wonderful program that you (USF) should market more. What a great education with a projected end to it!
046	CPS	The degree program was Information Systems Management include more leadership and training in public speaking & oral presentations.	Regarding the questions about participating in campus social activities and clubs there were none at the North Bay campus and driving 2 hours each way for social activities while working full time and going to school full time is time prohibitive.

047	CPS		THe aurvey should allow open-ended questions about our current occupations. There is no non-profit catagory. I'm a political consultant - not govermnment (which isn't a choice anyway) I would seriously think about a jesuit grad school because of my (mostly) positive experience at USF.
048	CPS	N/A	The beauty of a school such as USF is that many persons in attendance bring a wealth of knowledge, values, wisdom, culture, and integrity with them upon enrollment that further enriches the USF experience.
049	CPS		The instructors in the CPS program made my learning experience. For the most part they were excellent but not all. I feel as a result I missed out on information and instruction that I didn't get. The school should audit the courses in the CPS program on occassion. For the most part I have nothing but praise for my education at USF and the assistance we received from the staff and faculty.
050	CPS	Try actually teaching what is in the course descriptions.	The ISM program in CPS was an ABSOLUTE joke. That program was SOLELY for people already in the IT field who simply needed a degree. For those of us who were NOT in that field previously, we did NOTHING MORE than pay ~$18k to be able to put 'B.S.' on a resume. Of course that's not how it gets pitched by the charlatans hawking CPSoh nooo, they just like to sneer when you mention U. of Phoenix or St. Mary's, and say how 'well prepared you'll be to be an IS mgr after you graduate, regardless of prior experience.' Hucksters. Nearly every course in the program was just a hazy, vague overview. Some did not even come close to matching the course description, e.g. ISM 401. Granted, this was not computer science program, but we learned absolutely JACK DIDDLY SQUAT about relevant technology and practical application, i.e. some hands-on learning is paramount when dealing with, duuuhhh, TECHNOLOGY. There were multiple students from our class who raised these concerns to USF faculty and administration, and we got nothing but patronizatio
051	CPS	Open the Oakland campus again. That is an ideal location for so many working adults.	The teaching quality of the instructors at USF is superb. I value the education that I received at USF and hopefully, in the near future, I will go on for a Master of Arts degree.

052	CPS	It's been 10+ years since I was at USF, so I am not familiar with the CPS Information System program now, but at the time I was enrolled I felt there were two problems that kept the program from being first-class. First, current trends in technology were not addressed and the curriculum was clearly behind the times. Not addressing the advances in telecommunications, in particular, was a shortcoming. Second, people who had no business being at the junior level in the program held the rest of the class back while basic IS concepts were explained to them over and over again. With each class being about six weeks in length, material that should have been covered in detail di	The writing instructor who taught the first 12 weeks of the program was a fine teacher who demanded our best effort and got it.
053	CPS		There are a lot of grammatical mistakes on this survey, which is a poor reflection on the university.
054	CPS	USF and other Jesuit universities would be well advised to take on more activities and speakers who might espouse traditional values rather than progressive secular values. I believe that the academic world continues to be leftist in nature and doe not really reflect a representative viewpoint of all students.	This disparity hurts the fundraising efforts. Why should I contribute to an institution that seems more interested in 'diversity' and 'sexual orientation' than teaching students the course material. I enjoyed my experience at USF, wouldn't trade it for anything, but except in a few instances, my right wing tendancies would have been shouted down,
055	CPS	focus more on the person not on the raising of funds.	This is the first time I receive communication from USF after graduation where I am not asked to contribute money.
056	CPS	Nothing - I was very happy with the CPS program.	This survey is a little misleading for my situation. I already had a job with the government at the time I was attending USF - I am a career employee so the questions about this being my first job after college don't really apply but I responded as best as I could.
057	CPS	I can't speak for the traditional on campus degree program but from what little I have seen and experienced USF offers a very well-rounded education and maybe better suited to eventual employment-that first career job than the CPS program. What is 'better' and how do you measure 'better'? Have more social activities in the CPS program to foster fellowship and a sense of belonging to a special group.	This survey is not geared towards graduates of the CPS program. The CPS program is an excellent method of earning a non-traditional College degree and the integrity and commitment of the CPS program staff is impeccable. I couldn't ask for a better education but my degree was not earned to get a job, it was earned to keep a job. I had little or no interest in the major I pursued, it was just a convenient major because of my job experience. I would much rather pursued a degree in ethics, philiosophy or religion but my company wouldn't pay the costs. The hard fact is college is a life expericence that can't be quantified-it is different for every person in terma of value and impact on life.

058	CPS	Continue to make classes relevant to current industry trends, needs, and world affairs. Integrate activities or events into curriculum that promote or teach service of and/or awareness of social needs/issues Integrate off-site course work or travel for real-world, practical application of classroom education	USF provided a wonderful, well-respected education and degree, based on a platform of service to our community and others. That is something you don't see in most of our educational institutions these days. Moreover, USF did a great job in making a great education available to a wider community (CPS), both geographically and professionally, who often would not have access to that education.
059	CPS		USF's CPS program has made me a better supervisor and manager in my present position at the Veterans Administration.
060	CPS	Offer a broader selection of electives and classes	Very good survey. Thanks.
061	CPS	I loved my education in the College of Professional Studies. The only suggestion that I have, is the pace at which we went through each subject left me with a rather 'fuzzy' memory of the learning. If there was a way to increase the modules to 8 weeks each and still complete the program in two years, that may result in better retention of the subject matter learned.	What really surprised me with my coursework is how much I love religious studies, now. I did not expect that as an outcome, and I don't know if that is a common experience of your graduates. It has been a good thing, for me, indeed. Thanks! (please note, my address below is a new address)
062	CPS	I graduated from the college of professional studies, with a BS in Organizational Behavior. I came in as a transfer student, seeking to complete a degree I had started over 13 years ago. One of the things I wish USF had done was to have offered a BS degree in business (as opposed to organizational behivor which was more HR oriented). Another change would be to add an MBA program in the south bay area (san jose). After graduating from USF in 1999, I really wanted my masters degree (specifically an MBA). I was told I would have to go all the way up to San Francisco for classes as they did not offer an MBA program in the Gilroy or the San Jose USF campus. As I was workin	You should have a program where by students could utilize the Santa Clara Univ. library facilities. I was studying for my BS at the Gilroy campus, and had to send away for books via the mail (all the way to San Francisco!). After all Santa Clara and USF are both Catholic schools they should see about cooperating a bit more. Also, you should try to recruit more students from the medical & biotech companies in the bay area: (ie. Genentech, Johnson & Johnson, Genomic Health, Phillips, Tyco, etc.).
063	CPS	1. In my 2 years at the Orange County campus, I had to use a DOS-based access to USF's library. DOS is out-dated. 2. I suggest that classes use live and dated issues and compare them with past issues. This way people can think about the cultural differences at different generations.

066	CPS	Can only speak to CPS curriculum, which I found dated and particularly lacking in quantitative, analytical methodsat least for my major field of Economics. Also needed much better emphasis onand access to -current technology applications and, especially, an overall higher caliber of instructors.
067	CPS	CPS instructors should provide course materials and learning objectives to the administration prior to being selected as the instructor of the course. There were many cases when my cohort had more knowledge of the subject matter (today's technology) than the instructor.
068	CPS	CPS needs to be more challenging. Many of my classes were effortless and they should not have been. In my structured prgramming class, for example, I modified three whole lines of code from a pre-existing Java textbook source. I should have come out of that class being able to write Java. I didn't. I got an A.
069	CPS	Encourage integrity and fairness within the university system even if one has to admit that they were wrong; and by not allowing one individual to make a decision that could ultimately destroy another individual's academic career.
070	CPS	Focus more on 'What it means to have a Jesuit Education' in the CPS program
071	CPS	for CPS - hire more instructors who have REAL, working experience that they can draw upon & speak to in the classroom. We had only 2 in the entire course.
072	CPS	Get better faculty Push students harder - better quality all around - Integrate business/community/social responsibility
073	CPS	Have more activities in different locations other than in the Bay. Like Stockton, Modesto etc
074	CPS	I can only make suggestions related to the College of Professional Studies and the Public Administration Program. I graduated with a BPA from CPS. I am currently in the MPA program. I find the MPA and BPA curriculums to be much the same. I would suggest that CPS modify the MPA program for those who already have a BPA, so there is not so much duplication. As an example: I am currently enrolled in the policy analysis class. So far, the MPA course content is the same as the BPA.

091	CPS	Stop pushing the issues specific to the Democrat party. Education is about free thinking but Universities always try to silence opposing viewpoints. It appears that I have to agree with everything USF stands for but I can't offer a dissenting opinion. Just like in the private sector, we are asked to diversify our beliefs and the name of multi-cultralism and to not offend anyone but I don't see that within the educational sector. Some of the viewpoints of USF offend me but that seems to be alright. It is very, very hypocritcal.
092	CPS	The Collage of Professional Studies felt removed from the campus. Any integration or exchange of activities would have created a closer relationship with the University
093	CPS	The staff that were responsible for hiring our instructors and putting us in contact with them prior to the start of each class, did a terrible job for a good deal of the program. This resulted in our not knowing which books to purchase until the class had already started in some instances, and, not knowing what homework was required before the first night of a course. I complained to those in charge, but got nothing but insults, accussations, and refussal to help. While these staff members were ultimately relocated to other positions and things improved at the very end of the program, it would have been helpful if there was an advocate for the CPS program that could
094	CPS	There should be a greater push to integrate CPS students into the USF Family during their attendence in the program That's if that has not already changed. Think about it These students bring alot of money to the school and after they are Gradutated they have little to no sense of community to USF since there was non during their atrtendence. I graduated from Jesuit High out of New Orleans and I know what the Jesuit Community has to offer. I do not have the same emotional connection to USF. When I attend aUSF event I sort of feel like a fake, an impostor. Some how the CPS Folk are going to have to have to be included in to the community. It would have been nice

097	CPS	When I attended, my cohort experienced instructors who were underqualified to be teachers of the subjects. The materials were good at the time, however, a majority of the instructors were last minute hires. That brought the quality of the instruction down and disappointed many of my classmates who had also complained to the Dean, at that time. Hopefully, CPS has taken a more thorough approach at instructor selection and securing their time to teach.

001	Nursing	The nursing education was very good, at times though i felt as if i got treated differently because i was not white, or i looked tired, but thats because i had to work full time 40 plus hours a week, not like the majority of the other students in my nursing classes	diversify the class, include people more people who are non-white in the nursing classes, and who do not have families who are very rich
002	Nursing		Good Education but distroyed me finacially. Thousands of dollars in school loans and credit card dedt. Had to go on dedt management for years and missed out buying a home when they were cheap in the bay area. Now my wife and I live in a house we really can't afford, paycheck to pay check, life is a living hell.
003	Nursing	Keep a small amount of students in each class.	Great college.
004	Nursing	cannot think of any been a long time since I have been at USF	I highly value my education at USF holding my non-nursing course work to as much value as the nursing course work. I am still paying for my education eleven years later. The money comes automatically out of my paycheck every month, and I have no regrets. Before USF, I was making $10 an hour, now I make over $50, work part-time, have a full life all while making an impact on the health and well-being of my patients in the hospital. USF nutured my critical thinking skills that are the foundation of nursing practice. For that, my patients and I am thankful.
005	Nursing	Nursing was so nursing-focused, so I feel that we have a different experience than other majors. The nursing education was very good; the teachers were wonderful. Outside of nursing, classes were limited. I wish I had a class on politics or a recent World History class. I would have liked to take more art classes painting, pottery, metal-working, etc. I would have studied abroad if the nursing program allowed time for that. I think a study abroad semester would have made a strong impact. It would be incredibly special to voulenteer as a nurse in a developing country and expereince helping that community.It's hard to say what USF was specifically responsible for, and	I loved USF! I have no regrets, and I'm proud to say i'm alumni. I loved participating in ERASMUS and dancing hula with the hawaiian club. I also have no other college experience to compare it to.

007	Nursing	I, and my fellow nursing students, found it very difficult to fit the required general education classes around our required nursing classes. Though I understand that it is difficult to do, I think there needs to be a bit of consideration, when creating the class schedule, to this. Often there were only night classes that fit into the schedule. This was particularly draining as nursing clinicals usually begin at 07:00.	I was extremely lucky to be a memeber of a very small class of nursing students when I attended USF. I think 14 of us graduated in December 2002. I think we received lots of personal attention from the professors. They were, for the most part very willing to help us learn and clearly loved their choosen field as shown by their outside research.
008	Nursing		On campus housing was very poorly and unfairly coordinated. Though the lottery system used while I was an undergraduate sounded very unbiased and fair, there were many glitches that affected me each time I signed up for houseing. It was a horrible stress to face each year and left a poor impression of the school overall.
