Required Text/Reading
- ERWIN CHEMERINSKY, CONSTITUTIONAL LAW (4th ed., 2013) (hereinafter “casebook”); and
- Supplemental readings posted periodically under the weekly “Modules” tab on the Course Canvas site. These readings will also aggregate and be available under the “Files” tab on the Course Canvas site.

1st Assignment
- Preface: casebook pages xxxv-xxxviii;
- Article III of the U.S. Constitution (The Judiciary): casebook page xlvii;
- Introduction (From Where Did the Power of Judicial Review Come?): casebook pages 1-11;
- Interpretive Limits: casebook pages 11-33; and
- Obergefell v. Hodges (on Canvas).

Brief Note to Students
- If you are interested in obtaining a supplemental study aid for the course at any point this semester, I recommend ERWIN CHEMERINSKY, CONSTITUTIONAL LAW: PRINCIPLES AND POLICIES (4th ed., 2011).
- Familiarize yourself with the Constitutional Law Canvas site before coming to class. I will use it to post supplemental readings and the PowerPoint slides from each class, and to make announcements regarding assignments.
- Please come to class on Tuesday prepared to claim a seat for the entire semester. I will pass around a seating chart on day 1. Please let the Registrar’s office know in advance if you need a seating accommodation.
- Good luck with your first batch of readings. I’m looking forward to meeting new students and seeing familiar faces on our first day!
