

WEEKLY UPDATE – Aug. 31

Remote Resources, myUSF COVID-19 Hub

In this time when we can't be together on campus, USF has created a new website as a single source for all announcements, actions, and services related to remote instruction. Check out the USF remote hub to view all COVID-19 updates, actions, and resources in one place. As much of our community will be learning at a distance, the information contained on the university hub can be used as a reference for steps being taken to ensure the health and safety of all when we do return to campus. Recommendations from public health sources are evolving and USF will continue to update these pages as new information becomes available.
