First Assignment:

There is no assignment due for Tuesday, January 12, which is our first class of the spring semester.

However, you will need to complete videos and exercises by the 11:59 pm of Thursday, January 14, 2021 before you do advanced computer research training in our Friday, January 15, 2021 class that week. If you want to get started on doing the videos and exercises, it will make your first week at school less hectic. Please go to the Spring 2021 Canvas site for LRWA Section 3, and go to the week 1 module. In that module, you will find the Advanced Research Training module, which contains the instructions, the online research training videos, and exercises. It should take you about an hour and a half. You must complete the videos and exercises by the deadline to get the 5 points for this assignment. Please contact me if you have general questions or April Ham at ahham@usfca.edu if you have questions about the research exercise.

Additional Notes:

Enjoy the rest of your break. See you next week.
