Department of Art + Architecture Mission

The Department of Art + Architecture at the University of San Francisco is situated within a vibrant liberal arts setting that provides an arts education without boundaries. Our mission is to teach historical, theoretical and practical foundations across disciplines with the common goal of critically reflecting upon the global condition while becoming local agents of change.

Program Learning Outcomes (PLOs)

1. Students will gain solid historical knowledge of the objects of art and principal artists of all major periods, and their associated theories, analysis and criticism, including a broad understanding of the cultural diversity of art movements from prehistoric times through contemporary culture, both locally and globally.

2. Students will gain an understanding of basic visual principles, concepts, media, and formats in the various fine art disciplines, and the ability to apply them to meet a specific objective, including an ability to think critically and propose creative solutions to aesthetic problems.

3. Students will gain a deep appreciation and knowledge of how to use their skills to work with diverse communities both locally and globally to create social change, including the acquisition of professional skills that will serve them as post-graduate students, professional practitioners, educators, and community leaders.

4. Students will gain knowledge and skills in the use of basic tools, technologies, and processes sufficient to conduct advanced research or project work, including the mastery of bibliographic research and understanding of the digital tools and processes necessary to develop that research.

Brief Summary of Most Recent Assessment Plan

Fine Arts Program assessed the course, ART-470, Senior Studio with Outcome 4: Students will gain knowledge and skills in the use of basic tools, technologies, and processes sufficient to conduct advanced research or project work. This includes the mastery of bibliographic research and understanding of the digital tools and processes necessary to develop that research.
This was achieved through portfolio assessment during their Senior Thesis Exhibition at SOMARTS Gallery in May 2017. Besides the art work, this portfolio also included bio, and artist statement. Student artwork was photographed, catalogued, and assessed with our rubrics chart - Fine Arts faculty member and Program Director Sergio De La Torre.

Academic Program Review

Date of most recent Academic Program Review’s External Reviewer Visit: 2016
Date of most recent Action Plan Meeting: 2017
Brief Summary of the most recent Action Plan: We had a couple planning meetings among faculty and the administration, and apparently nobody can do anything about space issues (which would require administration cooperation).

Methods
What did you do with regard to assessment of your program/department in 2016-2017?

Faculty continued to follow the checklist, completing the curricular map cycle from 2016, All 100-400 classes have now been accounted for with the 4 PLO’s.

What were your questions?

Are students prepared to conduct advanced research and project work’? Will they be ready for successful applications in the art world?

How are these questions related to your most recent Academic Program Review and/or Action Plan?

N/A.

What PLOs are these questions related to?

PLO: 4

What direct (most important) and/or indirect methods did you employ?
Some Possible Direct Methods (pick > 1 and briefly describe):

Portfolio, Capstone Projects, Thesis are the Direct Methods used to assess the project work in Fine Arts, with special emphasis on the outcome:

Identify appropriate research-related resources to produce a final written and visual project, such as the Senior thesis - portfolio, bio, artist statement - for presentation within a public context. Students were also responsible for installing and de-installing their work. In this class students also were able to identify and prepare applications for graduate studies, grants, residencies and other art professional endeavors.
Some Possible Indirect Methods (briefly describe):

Audience response to the Senior Exhibition. The exhibition was very well attended and extremely well received by members from the Bay Area arts community. Students engaged in conversations with different audiences outside the classroom. They answered questions and received compliments from gallery goers.

What were the direct data results?

All students met the rubrics of the Benchmark Standard:
Student demonstrates an ability to prepare applications for grants, graduate study, or other post-professional endeavors, including written applications and or art portfolios.

What were the indirect results?

N/A

What surprised you?

Students were not prepared to discuss their work within a larger art historical approach. Students at this level are expected to see themselves as a part of a legacy of artists, writers and curators. Every Fine Arts Program course introduces several artists and writers from around the world. Students become familiar with modern and contemporary art practices from painting to photography, from ceramics to sculpture, from installation to community based art.

What aligned with your expectations?

Students are prepared to begin the next stage in their artistic development; ready to apply for graduate study, and continue having a studio practice with their artwork.

What do you understand these results to mean?

The Fine Arts Program is able to provide a meaningful education with just 12 major classes, finalizing with a one semester Thesis course.

What are the implications of the data?

Our checklist is working with the correct number, ordering and sequence of 100-400 offerings.
Closing the Loop

What might you do as a result of these assessment results? What curricular or programmatic changes might you implement?

The Senior Studio course will re-evaluate the portfolio assignments, specifically to include more breadth of choices for students to engage in the larger art world. It is not enough to simply document your work, but also to understand your practice as a part of an art legacy.

Have you or will you submit any course or program change proposals as a result of these results?

No courses will need to be significantly altered to enact the revisions listed. However, the Fine Arts Program needs to offer more upper division electives, but given the lack of space, the program cannot offer more classes.
